Enterprise zone approval given

EMPLOYMENT, industrial growth and revenue possibilities in the Tri-Cities Area substantially increased with the state's announcement of approval last week for the area's enterprise zone. The zone is designed to encourage economic growth in troubled areas by providing potential investors with incentives such as tax breaks. Gov. James Thompson awarded the zone, and released a statement praising Granite City, Madison, Venice and the county for their cooperation in forming the zone. "An excellent example of local units of government working together to improve their economy is found in Madison County," Thompson said.

July 4 deadlines announced

HOLIDAY DEADLINES for the Press-Record and Press-Record/Journal are different. The Tuesday Press-Record will be delivered a day early, on Wednesday, July 3. Thursday deadlines are 3 p.m. on July 1 for display advertising; noon on July 2 for news; no change in classified deadlines. Sunday Press-Record/Journal deadlines are July 3 at 4:30 p.m. for display advertising; Friday, July 5 at 1 p.m. for news; 5 p.m. for classifieds.

Venice, Local 98 reach agreement

SALARY INCREASES and minor policy changes are included in the working agreement reached Thursday by the Venice Board of Education and negotiators for Local 98 of the Building Services Union. Wages increased 5 percent for custodians, cooks and secretaries, all Local 98 members. Non-union employees also received 5 percent pay raises. The two-year contract must be ratified by the Venice School Board. The previous contract expired June 30.

Bridge tax plan opposed

DOWNTOWN BRIDGES, known for their need as well as their problems, were the subject of a report delivered last week that proposed a bridge commission be formed to relieve crowding on the Poplar Street Bridge. The proposed commission, which would be supervised by a sales tax of up to a quarter-cent, would control the McKinley, MacArthur, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Eads bridges. The tax was opposed, however, by some bridge owners and area politicians, including St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello who, as chairman of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, asked for the committee's formation.

School denies smoking — no butts

FRESHMAN STUDENTS will not be allowed to smoke at the high school next year, the District 8 School Board voted last week. In following years, smoking will be phased out for all students at Granite City High School. "I don't think we should be condoning smoking by our students," said board member Alan Crider. "And by providing a smoking area for them, that's what we're doing now."

Time runs out for parking meters

SHOPPERS have another incentive to visit downtown — free parking. A 14-block area was freed from parking meters at the request of downtown merchants. The Granite City Council heeded the request, voting 11-3 for removal. The parking meters provided $18,812 in city revenue last year, according to City Comptroller Joe Miklovic.

Quote of the week

"WE DON'T want to give them a harr for a wienie," said Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols following last week's announcement about plans to form a bridge commission. The plan, in part, suggested Venice relinquish ownership of the McKinley Bridge to the commission, which would assume payments on debts. The announcement came for a bridge committee working at the request of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council.

Car show produces little trouble

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

Expectations of trouble some had expressed about St. Louis International Raceway's first Street Machine Nationals car show proved unfounded. In less than 10 hours, 1,500 visitors, mostly young people, were expected to attend the event and cars clogged Route 203 outside Madison on Friday and Saturday. Few arrests were reported. The event, from looking at the city's police blotter, seemed to proceed differently from a normal weekend.

About 200 Illinois State troopers supported by police departments from local communities were in attendance for the three-day Car Craft Magazine showcase event.

Granite City police issued about 45 traffic citations Friday, mostly for minor violations, but also a few arrests were made for driving under the influence, public drunkenness, conduct and alcohol possession.

Twenty-four accidents occurred, two resulting in minor injuries.

Regular police officers were accompanied by a member of the Granite City Auxiliary Police.

Accesses to shopping center parking areas along Nancy Road, where young people frequently gather on Friday and Saturday nights, were blocked off between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. Many of the 100 or so barrels were filled with water by the Granite City Fire Department late Friday night after some barrels were found to have been roved.

Businesses located in local shopping centers also appeared to benefit the most as floodgate shows after business was concluded for the day.

Kraus retires, and he's ready to fish

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

Fish, beware! One of southwest Illinois' more avid fishermen will soon have a lot more time to devote to his favorite avocation, for he will soon be done with his vocation.

Frank Kraus, the superintendent of schools in the Granite City School District for the past year and an employee of the district for 29 years, retires this week.

Dr. Max Redmond, named the new superintendent by the district in March, officially took over Monday.

But the fish will still have a couple of weeks to rest, easy, because they'll stay on the water for 25 days as Redmond takes over before the new boss dives into the task on his own.

"I'll let Dr. Redmond move into my office and I'll just sit outside in one of the hallways and wait," Kraus said.

Kraus retires with the second-longest stretch of continuous service in the district. Only Dick Huff, at Grigsby Junior High, has served longer, 34 years.

Kraus has spent almost all of his 35 years in Granite City. Born and raised here, he was one of the outstanding athletes at Granite City High School in the late 1940s.

He earned 11 letters in football, baseball and basketball, and played on Granite City's last conference championship football team in 1946.

"I was a pretty good player," Kraus said. "We had a lot of good players back then. I was also an outfielder on the last state baseball champions here in 1948."

After graduation in 1948, Kraus attended Southern Illinois University at Carbondale for his undergraduate work and then Indiana State University for graduate work.

After two years in the Lawrenceville, Ill., school district, it was back home in 1956.

Kraus started at Coolidge Junior High School in 1956 as a physical education teacher and head football coach. He remained there until the latter were not bad, to say the least.

After going 3-3 in 1956, Kraus' Coolidge teams went undefeated for six consecutive years.

"What happened that first year?" Kraus asked. "I'm not sure, but I'm getting started there my first year." Kraus said. "We had a late start and were still trying to get all our equipment together when the season had already begun. After that, we really took off."

Like any winning coach, Kraus gave more credit to his players than to any coaching genius on his part.

"I was really fortunate to have some great players on my team," he said. "I had guys like Joe Haupt, Mike Hause, we had a guy named Jerry Line, who later went to Illinois; and John Evenden, who played some at Iowa.

"I also had a guy named Larry Curry who I'm sure had a hand in getting the best of them all."

But wouldn't you know it, he hurt his back and never was able to develop as much as he could have."

Kraus eventually became an assistant principal at Coolidge before moving on to Central Junior High School as principal for the 1965-66 school year.

He returned to Coolidge as principal in 1966-67.

When Russ Johnson, superintendent, died in 1967, B.J. Davis took over the top job and Kraus was named an assistant to the superintendent.

In 1968, Kraus was named assistant superintendent.

"That was different than the other job," he said. "This was a command line job. In the first job, I was just one of B.J.'s assistants. But as the assistant superintendent, I was really the second in command. It was going to be my turn to be in charge."

Kraus then stayed second in command for 16 years until June 29, 1984, when by a 4-2 vote, Davis was relieved of his duties by the board.

Kraus, who was planning to retire in 1985, was asked to remain as acting superintendent and then announced his plans to retire in June 1985.

Kraus, although admitting it will be "nice to go out in the top spot," said he was happy to serve as the acting superintendent for all those years.

"My attitude was I was happy in that job," he said. "I was in my hometown and I was doing something I wanted to do. And it wasn't

To be judges appease ultra-right

I knew Rotary wanted to be a federal judge, but I didn't know what he wanted until I found him at his desk perspiring as he filled out a questionnaire.

"What's that?"

"It's a series of questions I have to answer correctly to satisfy the ultra-right wing that is worthy of having a seat on the bench."

"Why are you trying to satisfy the ultra-right?" I asked him.

"Because Ronald Reagan listens to whom when he decides who gets the federal judgeships, which candidate has to swear he buys the whole conservative ideology or he can't get appointed US hall bondsman in a traffic court."

"What kind of questions are they asking?"

"They want to know how I'll rule on abortion."

"You're going to have to rule for it if you want to be a federal judge, so you better be good."

"It may be the law of the land, but the ultra-right believe a federal judge has to ignore the law if a fetus is at stake."

"So what are you putting down?" I asked him.

"Here's what I wrote. 'As a federal judge I have no choice but to let my conscience take precedence over any Supreme Court decision — so help me God.' Do you think it's strong enough?"

"The devil only knows what will satisfy them. What else are they asking you?"

"Would I have any hesitation flying a man in the electric chair?"

"That's a good right-to-life question. Would you?"

"Not if I could send him to the gas chamber first. You see, I don't want them to think I'm partial to just one kind of death penalty."

"I should hope so. How else would the good guys kill the bad guys in the stateways?"

"What do I stand on the Equal Rights Amendment?"

"Tell 'em right on the top of Phyllis Schlafly."

"They want a list of all the political greats. I've donated money to the last 10 years, the name of anyone in the neighborhood who does not support covert aid to Nicaragua, a list of members of my family who still believe in Dukakis' theory of evolution, and any bus drivers I know who are actively involved in school busing."

"You know something?" I said. "After listening to all this garbage, I've decided to deduce myself by answering a questionnaire from a bunch of right-wing kooks just to get a seat on the federal court."

"Oh yeah?" he said. "They may be kooks, but they also happen to be United States Senators. As far as the White House is concerned, when it comes to selecting judges, the right-wing zealot's word is law."

"I'd put down 'C' just to play it safe," I told him.

"There's no legal precedent for 'C,'" he said.

Child support sensitive subject

"He don't pay, he can't visit the kids!" How many times have you heard that one?

It is a natural gut reaction in an emotional setting but it does not allow the法院 people to be wrongfully informed (and use it as an excuse to avoid an obligation) that if the non-custodial parent does not pay his or her child support he has no right to visit with his children and vice versa, if he or she is denied visitation, then child support does not have to be paid.

That philosophy is based on an "eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth" and has been rejected by the western civilized world as expressed by statute and common law.

For example, Jane has been awarded custody of two children in a divorce decree. Dick has quit making child support payments and wants to visit with his children, even when he missed several visitation periods. Jane says "no." Jane has no right to pay child support to determine if he has a right to visit with his own. Some of some severe situations or circumstances that warrant the refusal other than Dick's failure to pay child support is for some sanction to force Dick's compliance with the support order. The court has many avenues available to resolve the problem. The same is true if Jane denies Dick visitation. Dick's course of action is to continue his payments, and apply to the court for relief and

Rotary looked at the sheet. "Do I believe everyone in America should own a gun?"

"I should hope so. How else would the good guys kill the bad guys in the stateways?"

"What do I stand on the Equal Rights Amendment?"

"Tell 'em right on the top of Phyllis Schlafly."

Snarling the state's simple tax system

By Jeff Brody
Copley News Service

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois General Assembly is moving to make the state's tax system more complex. At the same time, Congress and the president are announcing plans to simplify the federal income tax.

Recent statements by President Reagan and U.S. Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, indicate federal officials would love right now to have a tax system as simple and straightforward as the one in Illinois, a flat-rate 2.5 percent on all taxable income.

But what is the Legislature doing with this model system? They're making valiant efforts to add credits, deductions and checkoffs to the Illinois tax form.

"I think we're looking now at excess tinkering," says Tom Whitley, director of Tax Policy for the Federation of Illinois. "It is difficult for legislators to say no to deductions. It's hard to vote for a tax increase, but it's easy to erode the tax base."

"If you've got a tax base, and you start tinkering with it, you can't stop. There are good, altruistic motives behind every one of these proposals. You have one deduction, how do you stop another someone else wants one, too? But the purpose of the tax code is to apply a simple, fair and reasonable tax to all taxpayers."

The last time Illinois moved toward a simpler, fairer tax system was when the hated income tax was approved in 1969. That took some pressure off the regressive sales tax, as the state gave up some state revenue, and some off the regressive property tax because the flow of income tax revenue allowed the state to return greater amounts to cities and school districts.

The state income tax was a simple one. Take your net income reported on the federal form, remove $1,000 for each dependent, and apply 2.5 percent to the remaining amount.

But during the high inflation years of the late 1970s, when income, sales and property taxes all increased, the high state fund balances prompted calls for tax reform. The state income tax was a simple one. Take your net income reported on the federal form, remove $1,000 for each dependent, and apply 2.5 percent to the remaining amount.

Local girl wins national pageant

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

Vocalist Ginger Bookner of Madison won top honors in the talent segment of the Southern Miss America Grand National Pageant, staged June 21-22 at the Six Flags Ramada Inn at Eureka, Mo.

Ginger was the overall talent crown and title. Ginger, 16, initially won first place in the 15 years and older age division. She then topped all other winners from other age levels of competition.

Ginger was declared the overall winner after singing "I Believe" before a panel of judges, consisting of casting directors from New York City.

Other persons connected with Broadway and Off-Broadway productions also were among the judges.

About 150 young people took part in the national pageant.

Each of the contestants qualified for the national finals after winning preliminary and regional contests in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee and Texas, plus other southern states.

The Madison girl advanced to the national contest upon taking first place honors in a regional contest, which she held this spring in St. Louis County.

Along with a jeweled crown and sceptre and other gifts, the local vocalist received a large cash award for the winner of the pageant's overall talent sequence.

Ginger Bookner

The daughter of Mrs. Bobbie Bookner, 1635 Market St., Madison, who is a teacher's aide at Morris School, Ginger was chosen her junior classmate this fall at Marquette High School in Alton. She observed her 16th birthday in May.

She attended Harris School until entering St. Mary-St. Mark Parochial School in Madison in the third grade, and she remained a pupil there until starting high school.

In July 1983, Ginger attained national and international recognition when she won the title of Miss Hemisphere. The泰山 queen in the Miss Hemisphere International Pageant in Philadelphia, Pa.

In winning this title over 46 international contestants, Ginger received a new 1984 automobile, a diamond watch and full tuition-paid scholarship to the Philadelphia Academy of the Holy Angels.

Due to her age at that time and deferring to her mother's wishes, she has not yet exercised her option of claiming the scholarship, which still remains open.

The young vocalist also is a voice and piano student at the Saint Louis Conservatory and Schools for the Arts Midtown, known by the acronym CASA, where she has been studying three years.

Ginger was the first student attending CASA on a full scholarship—the Michael Holmes and Rhea Holmes Scholarship for voice and piano instruction.

She also served as the news correspondent on the "KidsWorld" television network. She has performed at many civic functions and is widely-known in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

As a pianist, she earlier won the prestigious Fontbonne College Instrumental Music award for her performance in a regional contest.

Eagles Auxiliary plans fund raisers

Members of Eagles Auxiliary 1126 discussed money-making projects for state charities for the ensuing year at its regular meeting last week.

For the state project of child abuse, Chairman Carol Hill suggested a carnival with games for children and adults.

Wayne and Means Co-Chairmen Dorothy Bailey and Yvonne Gray reported that an eagle statue is being offered as a prize. Tickets for the event are to be turned in by July 4, and the club will make pizzas on Sept. 14, she added.

Carol Hill, Chairman Cindy Glotfelty is having a "no bake sale" for her charity, and the auxiliary is making plans for a Schnuck's luncheon next fall.

The president announced the Auxiliary's annual picnic on Aug. 13, and everyone was asked to bring a covered dish. Members were also reminded of the Aerie Officers Breakfast today at 9 a.m.

GOP Women's Club plans memorial

Plans to send a $50 memorial gift in honor of deceased members of the Granite City Republican Women's Club, were finalized at the June meeting hosted at Bill Burns' Cafeteria.

Treasurer Irma Taylor recommended the gift be forwarded to the Illinois Federation of Republican Women's Club for the late Bethel Davis, Gladys Newman, Janette Krause, Mabel Stewart, Marie Hampton and Ruth Lucas. Their names will be elected in November.

President Vernice Walter said the campaign will be held in memory of Bill Burns' Idaho, granddaughter of Bill Burns, was presented with a Statue of Liberty bank.

Seniors request more bus trips

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

More bus trips to events such as the Muny Opera and Fox Theatre were requested by the Granite City Council of Seniors June 26 at a Granite City Park Board meeting.

Juniata Crawley and John Petish of the council asked why more trips to those local entertainment could not be sponsored, and they also requested more one-day bus trips.

"I know that in the past we did have trips to the Muny," said Board President George Sykes. "But we had to buy all our tickets at the beginning of the season and we never knew how many people were interested in going. We often ended up spending more on ticketed bus trips than we did on the trip itself."

Adrian Rains, maintenance supervisor,

Other purchases to be considered include two five-tier, 15-foot sections of bleachers from the West Granite Park. Rains said the bleachers will sit 120 spectators and cost around $615. The district is currently transporting bleachers back and forth from West Granite Park to the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

Groups sponsoring concession stands at the July 4 carnival at Wilson Park were announced. They include:

Cub Pack 19, snow cones; Raiders, bubble steaks; Bubblemasters, fried fish; Granite City Jaycees, popcorn; Granite City Senior Club, Pepsi-Cola; Mexican Honorary Commission, Mexican food; Moose Lodge, lemonade shakes; Parents Without Partners, corndogs; Genovese's, Italian food; Navy Mothers, nachos; Gloria Spence, portuguese pastries; Civic Activities Project Committee, balloons and voting information; Elks 16 & Under Soccer Team, shish-ke-bobs; and Granite City Center, balloons and informational material.

A pool party for June 9 through 22 was also issued. A total of 3,645 people visited the pool in that period. The largest attendance was on Sunday, June 9, when 609 people swam. Rain wiped out attendance on Tuesday, June 11, and Monday, June 17.

Petish suggested that people be allowed to come at 6 a.m., sign a guest list and then go home so they wouldn't have to wait until the 9 a.m. opening.

"I think we would still have the same problem," Sykes said. "People

Customers may choose long-distance service

As a result of a recent Federal Communications Commission decision, new rules govern the long-distance company selection process and the local businesses and households receive long-distance telephone service.

Since the divestiture of the Bell System 16 months ago, telephone customers across the nation have been or are being asked to select one company to provide most of their long-distance services. Until May 31, customers not making a choice remained with AT&T. Customers who wanted another long-distance service had to contact that company to sign-up for their service.

The FCC decision now requires that consumers complete a ballot, provided by the local telephone company, and return it either to the local company or to the respective long-distance company within 30 days. Consumers not returning the ballot will be randomly assigned to a long-distance company, one which may or may not meet their needs.

In addition, Southwestern Bell has indicated that it would begin retroactively those customers who did not make a choice of a long-distance company. It is believed that customers who again do not make a choice will be retroactively allocated to a long-distance company.

The FCC order states there should not be a retroactive allocation of customers who went through the Equal Access process before May 31. AT&T has indicated that retroactive allocation would be very unfair to customers.

Children's theater classes offered

The Urban League's Vaughan Cultural Center will begin theater classes for children on Monday, July 8. The classes, designed for youngsters 9 to 15 years old, will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. at the center, located at 1400 N. Kingshighway, St. Louis. Black Repertory Company will conduct the six-week session, which ends Aug. 15. Classes are free of charge, and youngsters do not need prior theater experience. Space is limited, so advance registration is required. To register, interested persons may call Almetta Jordan at Vaughn Cultural Center, 1-314-361-0111.

VCC receives funds from the St. Louis Arts and Humanities Commission through a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Park request to use school bus denied by boardBy VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

A request from the Venice Park Board to use three of its school district buses for field trips was turned down by the Venice Board of Education at its meeting Thursday night.

The action was taken by unanimous vote of school board members, who cited the park district request as "not complying with established policy of the board."

Such policy calls for board approval at least 30 days before first use of buses in question, Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers noted.

The request was submitted by Anna Claggett, a Venice Park Board member and recreation chairman for the park district.

Such policy was questioned by school board members, who said the request should be made by the president of the Venice Park District.

"We don't even know if this person (Mrs. Claggett) is authorized by the park board to make this request," the administrator said.

Several dates in July and August were mentioned in the request, including July 1, July 10 and July 12.

"Today is June 27 and it will not be established until July 1. The earliest date we can let them use the buses is July 27," Vickers said.

A previous letter sent to park district officials specified the school district's policy.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY HADIX of Granite City became the parents of a boy born on June 15 at Oliver C. Anderson Hospital in Maryville.

The new arrival has been named Matthew Joseph and he weighed 7 pounds, 7 ounces. He has two sisters, Lea Annie, 4 years old, and 2-year-old Erin Elizabeth.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Huelstroeter and Mrs. Louise Haddix of Granite City. Great-grandparents include Hazel Hodges, Kansas City, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Huelstroeter, Okawville, Ill., and Mrs. Elmer R. Baumley, Granite City.

BLOCK PARTY. Residents of Elmwood Boulevard enjoyed the party last week, with approximately 45 people participating in the outdoor gathering.

A dinner was served and games were planned for children and adults. Prizes were awarded to Glasgow, Larry Coker and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Dutko.

AN ICE CREAM SOCIAL luncheon will be held Tuesday, July 9, at Randy's Restaurant in Troy.

No problem serving under B.J. Davis. He and I always got along just fine."

When he finally got the top spot, he was nowhere near.

"When they got rid of B.J. and named me superintendent, I thought Granite City High School President Gilbert Walmsley served as superintendent for a week.

"When we got rid of Mr. Davis, it was only natural to name Frank then," Kraus said. "I was enjoying myself and then I got a call from my secretary and she said, 'I've got some news for you.'"

Rather than rush right home, Kraus enjoyed the rest of his vacation in Harkersie, North Carolina, "Kraus said. "I was enjoying myself and then I got a call from my secretary and she said, 'I've got some news for you.'"

"When we got rid of Mr. Davis, it was only natural to name Frank then," Kraus said. "I was enjoying myself and then I got a call from my secretary and she said, 'I've got some news for you.'"

"There was nobody who came out publicly against him," Hogan said.

"If anyone didn't like Frank then, I'm sure they do now. He has really done a good job. I think with the passage of the bond issue and other things, he has really helped us make a lot of progress."

Kraus said the biggest difference now in students from 1960 is that they are more active.

"I really don't know how all the modern day stuff like television has changed them," he said. "But you have to realize that kids will always be basically the same. Ninety percent of them are good kids, but you never hear about them. You hear a lot about those other 10 percent. And I can say that about Granite City kids as well."

Kraus is retiring the same year as one of the high school's finest classes is graduating.

"Our district was busy last year when graduating seniors received more than $500,000 in scholarships.

This year's seniors will receive close to $1.3 million in scholarships. "That obviously speaks well for the kids and I'm not just talking about the high school. Those kids never would have been in that position if it weren't for some good work at the kindergarten and first grade level, too."

A slide presentation at last Tuesday's board meeting showed that Granite City scored above the state and national averages in test scores last year.

"Our district has always been above average in the state," Kraus said. "We've got some fine people working here and I've always maintained that I've been proud to be a part of it. Everyone here has pride in the community. That district was almost buried (financially), but we're coming back."

"I feel comfortable handing over the reins to Redmond."

"He feels comfortable knowing that I'm retiring on my own," Kraus said. "He's his own man. He is a lot different than me. I know I'm a little gruff sometimes. But Dr. Redmond will take this district and keep it moving upwards."

And after a few weeks as a consultant for Redmond, it will be out to Shelbyville Lake or Carlyle Lake for a little fishing.

"I do mostly crappie fishing because I like to eat them," he said.

"But I will also go for bass. And I'll play a little golf (he shoots rounds of 85-90, "good enough to keep up with everybody else"). I put up about 55 pounds since I quit smoking two years ago. So I'm going to do some work and get into a little better shape."

After helping put the school district back into shape, that's only fair.

hosted by the Troy Christian Women's Club. The public is invited to attend and luncheon is a cost of $4.50 payable at the door.

Valerie Zimmerman of Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream store in Collinsville will be the guest speaker and special music for the day will feature Sharon Rexroth, soloist.

Card games were played and prizes awarded to Ned Tally, Ilene Willis, Thelma Schmidt and Juanita Rosenberg. Others present were Edith Ryan, Longville Melvyn, Eddie Hammert and Mary Lou Chesser. Mrs. Schmidt will host the July meeting.

FIRST CHILD ARRIVES For Airman Third Class and Mrs. Thomas R. (Chris) Baldwin, 1926 O St., Merced, Calif. The new arrival was born June 26 and has been named Thomas R. Baldwin Jr. He weighed 7 pounds, 12 ounces.

Obits

day, June 29, 1985, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

He was born in Yugoslavia and lived most of his life there.

Mr. Sjodin was a chef and, for a number of years, operated a restaurant in Madison. At one time he was employed at the Bill Burns Restaurant in Granite City.

There are no known survivors.

Friends include Kenneth and Terry Brooks; George and Russell and Hallie Frees of Glen Carbon.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday, July 2, at

Mercer Mortuary, 1416 Niederrhein Avenue, with burial at John Cemetery, 2901 Nameoki Road.

Joseph Nowicki

Joseph Nowicki, 67, of 49 Jandy Lane, a lifelong resident of the Quad Cities, died at 4:14 a.m. Sunday, June 30, 1985, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He was in ill health since March 1984.

Mr. Nowicki was born in Madison and for 35 years owned and operated Grand Cleaners at 23rd Street and Grant Avenue. He retired in June 1984.

He attended St. Joseph Catholic Church and served in the U.S. Marine Corps World War II. Mr. Nowicki was a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1300, Granite City, Venice-Madison American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary and the Elks Lodge in Granite City.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Mary (Nikonovich) Nowicki; one daughter, Miss Patricia Nowicki of Granite City; two brothers, Raymond Nowicki of St. Louis, and Henry Nowicki of Madison; and a sister, Mrs. R. M. (Angela) Hogan of Granite City.

Funeral arrangements were pending at Irwin Chapel for Funerals, 2801 Madison Ave., where the telephone number is 877-6500.

Bus

late requests have occurred in other years, it was noted.

Answering questions relating to operation of the buses, Vickers said the park board does provide its own auto liability coverage and the bus drivers are Venuce School District employees.

One member asked, "Where do we draw the line on the distance taken on these trips. This year they may want to go to Milwaukee and next year maybe to Chicago. What do we do if our buses are torn up?"

"We have to keep up and maintain the buses for school use and this is something that's been going on for quite a while," the administrator said.

"Basically we are concerned about the children in this community and we've gone out of our way to cooperate with the park district in the past," board member George Wade said.
"I just don't say the buses haven't been hurt in past years, but I believe the park board should be made aware of what our responsibilities are to this (school) district," he added.

The general consensus was based in a remark in which a board member commented, "We have to start somewhere."

Operating room practices change

By DOROTHY STRATMAN-LUCEY
Illinois Nurses Association
10th District President

The payments for surgery have been increasing steadily over the past few years resulting in changes within the hospital's operating rooms across the country.

Now instead of outpatient surgery and fewer overall patients being admitted all led to very competitive prices, compelling hospitals to look at the monetary outlay for surgeries performed within the hospital surgery department. In the need to cut costs, nurses would have routinely seen two physicians performing the surgeries. One would have been the primary surgeon and the second would have been "First Assisting".

Today, the role of the first assis-

Overweight need a flavor fix

Schiffman says that the psychological reasons for overeating are overrated. Overweight people don't crave more food; they crave more flavor.

Schiffman is a consultant for Pepsi-Cola and various food companies. Her objective: to encourage overweight people to satisfy their "true" psychological craving for more flavor with low-calorie alternatives.

"We attribute overweight too much to boredom, to psychological reasons," she said. "When I give psychological tests (she has a doctorate in psychology from Duke), I don't see that much difference between fat people and thin people. But we do find that fat people want more taste."

And that, she concluded, leads to the consumption of calorie-dense foods, often between or after meals.

"Most people on diets," she said, "are told to eat low-flavor foods—lettuce, cucumbers, etc. If they lose weight on such a diet, they make up for it later on. The first thing they head for is something with high-flavor, sensory impact: pizza, Chinese food, sweets."

"I feel overweight people have a set point for flavor. If you provide it with less food, they won't be satisfied. They want carbohydrate, food with color and aroma. With flavor amplification — enhancing the flavor of certain foods without increasing calories — they can feel full on less food."

This is not, Schiffman will have you know, solely her opinion. It is the conclusion she has reached after 13 years of studying patients at the Duke center, where 1,200-calorie-per-day diets are prescribed for gradual, consistent weight loss.

The data, however, does not coincide with studies published in the March issue of International Journal of Dieting Disorders.

Medical ethics questioned more

By LEO SACHAR, M.D.

In an earlier column, we considered how the doctor's role changed after the decade 1960. The doctor of today has had fewer medical problems compared to the problems which beset doctors today.

"To be unethical to him means to 'push' him to do things he doesn't want to do, to refer patients, or to advertise and finally to use medications and devices known to be ineffective and used by people referred to as quacks."

He had as his guideline the Hippocratic Oath and its injunction "First not to do anything to harm the patient." This oath was framed and displayed on many a doctor's office wall, and the public assumed every doctor took the oath seriously. In fact, most did, although, in fact, very few did.

Unfortunately, what seemed as simple for the legendary Hippocratic physician, a tree on the Green Island of Crete, some three thousand years ago, is frequently perplexing today.

What a doctor has to be concerned about is that what he does is not only right morally, but is right legally. He may be concerned that his proposed action may satisfy his moral or ethical sense, but not the law, which is the result for professional negligence by one who thinks differently. Conversely, he can do legally what to many is not right morally.

Many of today's problems are the result of technological advances.

Adolescent stage sometimes requires professional help

Adolescence is a difficult and confusing time of life, described in the dictionary as "the state of growing up." It is a time of knowing too much and not knowing enough; of being too old, but not old enough; of giving up childhood ways for adult ways, while still being a child.

Most parents manage to make it through this period and on to adulthood, if not quietly at least on seeing what their children are doing.

But some need more assistance than a parent or school counselor can provide. In a stage where before the development of respirators, the problems of maintaining patients for whom there is no hope of recovery might never arise. Without electronic equipment, whether to restart hearts or correct a fatal heart arrhythmia, in a patient in the terminal stages of disease, did not arise. Without dialysis apparatus for correcting kidney failure, the problem of what should be done would not have arisen.

Course,

many national conferences on medical ethics. The latest edition of a widely used medical textbook in its 17th edition issued in 1984 has for the first time an essay on medical ethics in its initial section.

Now that a doctor can do so much for, or perhaps, to patients, he repeatedly must answer the question of whether his actions is truly for the patient or for the patient's family. The patient is given the facts as the doctor knows them, and the patient's wishes are respected. Some patients are, however, in no condition to make a judgment and give an informed consent. Autonomy—the personal liberty to make one's own choices and plan one's own life, is also one of the central concepts of ethics. The sanctity of life is another.

St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City is a Catholic hospital in that the ethical considerations in practice in the center must conform to the ethical precepts of the Catholic Church. A woman who desires an abortion is making a decision for a life other than her own, and she is additionally acting contrary to the view that human life is sacred and should not be terminated. Thus abortion may not be performed at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

In considering the sanctity of life, a clear distinction should be made between living and the act of dying. Because life is sacred does not require that the act of dying be prolonged, as happens with resuscitation, cardiopulmonary resuscitation, etc.

The extent of the measures taken depends on the patient's wishes if he is able to make them known, or on the wishes of the nearest relatives. Obviously, such decisions are painful and occasion anxiety, and occasionally guilt for another.

The consultation of other relatives and spiritual advisors by the immediate family is frequently desired.

St. Elizabeth Medical Center maintains a pastoral service for patients and encourages patients, and their families, of other religious views to consult their own牧师 for help in these difficult problems.

Free parenting advice at the touch of your fingertips

It must be the dream of every expectant or new mother to have a roomful of health professionals to answer her questions, as working mothers and second marriages.

A new parenting hotline, developed as a public service of the Enfield Juvenile Probation Commission, comes very close to making that dream come true. Call 1-800-356-BABY (Ohio residents, call 1-800-233-BABY) weekdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. E.S.T. and an Enfield child care specialist will assist you.

How can I make breastfeeding more rewarding?

How can I find dependable, affordable day-care?

These questions and hundreds like them are indicative of the times. Parents are more concerned about providing for their newborn with the best of care. Their problems range from such traditional things as toilet training and formula preparation to such modern ones as working mothers and second marriages.

For a free informative pamphlet offering tips on child care write: Enfield C.C., P.O. Box 190, Ravenna, Ohio 44266.

strongly supporting the O.R. nurse as a profession, been able to do this. The primary reason the O.R.N. has adopted this stand is the influx into hospital operating rooms of many less qualified technicians and physicians. As a result, there is a lack of educational preparation and O.R. experience assisting the surgeons. The O.R. nurses feel they are far better prepared than those they see the physician bring to assist.

The O.R. nurses understand the needs of patients undergoing surgery. They do need to know if they are legally covered for the role of "First Assisting" and what are the parameters defining that role. The Department of Registration and Education (R & E), Nursing Section in Springfield has been addressing this problem in Illinois.

The O.R. nurses are seeking a ruling that they be permitted to be First Assistant, retaining the individual choice to do so or refuse, a clearer definition of the role as nurse, and the responsibility for continuing educational offerings on First Assisting to insure a high standard of care for the patients.

For additional information contact: Judy Otto, Nursing Section, Department of Registration & Education, 320 West Washington, Springfield, IL 62704, telephone (217) 785-0895.

If you need surgery, ask your physician surgeon who will be First Assisting.

Adolescents

on the staff of St. Louis University Medical Center.

The doctor says parents can look at four major areas of the adolescent's life to determine whether he is progressing toward adulthood, during the day up and down.

1. Is he mastering content, learning and preparing for his job right? In other words, is he doing all right in school?

2. Is he moving towards separation from family, developing the ability to go out on his own?

3. Is he maintaining peer relationships? (Not developing friendships which should have been done earlier.)

4. Is he becoming increasingly comfortable with his body and the changes that are occurring because of puberty?

If the parent can answer "yes" to these four questions, then "you don't really have a problem," says Dr. Dennis Slanetz, doors and windows curves alone are no cause for concern.

On the other hand, "the kid who misses curfew, who did make A's and B's, and now makes B's and C's, might have a problem," Dr. Berland cautions. "And rarely is it sudden. It's dramatic change over time. Bedtime goes later, other signs of trouble are giving up friends, participating in risky, self-destructive activities and being so uncommunicative with parents that the (more frequently seen in girls) begins to starve herself. And any suicide attempt is an obvious need to see a professional."

Certain backgrounds make a child at higher risk of falling into the pitfalls of adolescence. Those with a family history of illness or illness are poor, live in a single-parent home, have a physical handicap, are intellectually duller than average, and/or had early childhood neglect, are more prone to adolescent problems.

However, even intelligent and talented offspring can be prone to problems. The individual's ability to deal with growing up is the key.

Although some occurrences can't be prevented, parents can help their child by keeping him/her involved in development. Parents who can't answer the four questions (above) about the major areas of their child's life may be best off for the child, according to Dr. Berland.

Providing a good emotional foundation starts at birth, with "parenting" skills, loving, caring and being able to listen and talk to one's child," says Dr. Berland.

If the parents' best efforts fail and they find themselves with a troubled adolescent, help is available. Determining what to get it might be as difficult as deciding when to take a child with a physical illness to the doctor. As a guideline, Dr. Berland says, "It's time to seek help when you have to turn your head around and somebody has to be with the child 24 hours a day and you can't leave."

The first step is to have the adolescent evaluated by a child psychiatrist. This can be done either through a private physician or a program like St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Adolescent Care Program. The psychiatrist will make a recommendation for treatment based on the evaluation.

Treatment might mean regular individual sessions or, in more serious cases, a hospital stay. Either way, the parent should be prepared to become actively involved in the treatment and to engage in family counseling.

If inpatient hospital treatment is recommended SEMC has a special center devoted to its Adolescent Care Program. Designed to help adolescents deal with emotional and behavioral problems, the program is multidimensional.

"Our philosophy is that there are several important aspects of a person's life. All need attention," says Dr. Dennis Slanetz, director of the Adolescent Care Program.

Designed to help adolescents deal with emotional and behavioral problems, the program is multidimensional.

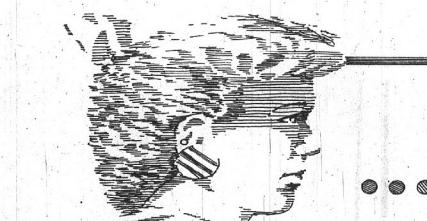

"Our philosophy is that there are several important aspects of a person's life. All need attention," says Dr. Dennis Slanetz, director of the Adolescent Care Program.

Family therapy is part of the program. The entire family meets with staff members to help bring about understanding and necessary changes.

Based on their needs, patients stay in the program from one to three months, with the average being about six weeks. Patients are not expected to anticipate some patterns. "You can expect the child to get worse immediately, as he tries to convince you that you won't help him. He will begin to get better very quickly as he tries to convince you that he is okay," says Dr. Berland.

A great deal of what the child will get out of the program rests on the parents and family. They must become actively engaged in helping make life better for the child.

After discharge from the hospital, the adolescent should continue to improve. "It's kind of like using a microwave oven, the food continues to cook after you take it out," explains Dr. Berland. "Follow-up reports on the patient's progress are not done until a year after treatment.

SEMC Program has been in operation only since September of 1984, so staff members are reluctant to talk about cures. "Cure is very subjective because it's probably a long-term treatment," says Dr. Slanetz. "It's a program, and it's getting better all the time," he reports.

The school district picks up the educational expenses for its students who are hospitalized at SEMC, help ing to keep the patient costs down.

Duane Weber, director of Madison County Region 2 Special Education Co-Op, which includes Edwardsville, Alton, Godfrey, and portions of Livingston school districts, also is familiar with the program. "We've referred six to eight people directly to SEMC, and some districts have referred probably another 10 to 12," he says. "We've been especially pleased with the Adolescent Care Program staff members who are very willing to work closely with the schools. The teachers there do not hesitate to communicate with the school about a student."

"The medical staff also has been willing to meet with us and help work out problems," Weber explains. As an example, he says the school system and the medical staff have worked together to allow a student to gradually return to school, beginning with a couple days a week, while still hospitalized. "We are very much pleased with the program," he adds.

Troubled adolescents can be referred to the program or to SEMC by a parent or relative, a pediatrician, the courts, the school system or a hospital emergency room as in the case of a drug overdose or suicide attempt.

John Gary to perform with Saint Louis Symphony

The Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra presents a special "evening of romance" with vocalist John Gary at the St. Louis County Pops at 8 p.m. July 6 and 7 in the air-conditioned Greensfelder Recreational Park of Queeny Park in west St. Louis County.

Selections include "The Way He Makes Me Feel" from "Yentl," "Love Will Keep Us Together," and selections from "Camelot," "West Side Story" and "Oklahoma."

Gary, a well-known entertainer whose career spans 20 years, 28 hit records, various musicals and a nationally-syndicated television show. Born in Watertown, N.Y., Gary studied voice at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City. He has appeared in several motion pictures, including Saroyan's "Time of Your Life" starring James Cagney.

The first major breakthrough in Gary's professional career came when he signed with RCA Victor Records, subsequently releasing more than two dozen best-selling RCA albums. In addition to recording, Gary now has his own 90-minute variety series, "The John Gary Show," in the late 1960s and has been a frequent guest of such television programs as the "Tonight," "Merv Griffin," "Dinah Shore" and "Carol Burnett" shows. Gary's performances in the critical theater include a critically-acclaimed performance as Prince Karl Franz in "The Student Prince" and the starring role in the Sheldon Harnick-Jerry Bock musical, "She Loves Me." He currently records for Churchill Records and devotes much of his time to nightclub and concert engagements throughout the country.

Tickets for these upcoming concerts are $12.50 and $15.00 each. A discounted rate of 25 percent off the regular ticket price is available to groups of 20 or more. Interested persons may call 1-314-333-2500, ext. 293 for group information or 1-314-534-1700 for regular or student ticket information.

Documentary examines life, work of blues musician Henry Townsend

St. Louis blues legend Henry Townsend wrote and recorded "Tears Come Rollin' Down" in 1953; then featured it on his latest album, "Mule," for Nighthawk Records. Townsend, who calls St. Louis his home, has toured Europe and played the blues in clubs across the United States. In an announcement made by the National Endowment for the Arts, he was just singled out as one of 12 master American artists who will receive a 1985 Heritage Award and ceremonies in Washington, D.C. this fall.

"That's the Way I Do It," a video documentary that gives a glimpse into Townsend's personal life and philosophy, will be presented in a world premiere at 8 p.m. Friday, July 11, in the Missouri Historical Society's Lionberger Gallery in the Jefferson Memorial Building in Forest Park, St. Louis. A live performance by Henry Townsend and his band, featuring Jimi Fornell as vocalist, accompanied by Ron Edwards, bottleneck guitarist, highlights the show. The program celebrates the first anniversary of the St. Louis Blues Club, a non-profit organization that produces and promotes blues music and blues artists in concerts in St. Louis. Tickets, with no reserved seating, may be purchased at the door for $25 per person.

The documentary, produced by Harvey Productions, was taped for television in St. Louis and New Orleans, with Kathy Corley as executive producer and Richard Con-

Children invited to space programs

Children ages 6 through 13 are invited to enter the world of adventure with true stories of women pilots, ancient legends of the moon, sun and planets and real accounts of space shuttles and space programs. The "Space Camp" and the series "Our Summer to Fly" conducted by the education staffs of the Missouri Historical Society and the St. Louis Science Center in the Jefferson Memorial Building in Forest Park at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Historian Betty Burnett tells about the few brave women who dared to be pilots in the early years of aviation on Tuesday, July 9. Young audiences presents "Sky Legends," a gold star presentation. Storytellers creates gold Indian stories about the unknown heavens on Thursday, July 11.

The summer programs culminate in Spaceweek-St. Louis 1985, celebrating the 16th anniversary of the April 11, 1969 moon landing. The month-long program, July 16-28, 1985. On Tuesday, July 16, and Thursday, July 18, experts will show slides and use models to explain man's latest advances in space technology, and children will be involved in craft projects so that they may take home their own space stations or platforms.

'FANTASY ON ICE' will feature world champion skating pair Tai Babilonia and Randy Gardner. The skating show will be presented at The Muny's outdoor theater July 8 through 14.

Acting not alien to Ameche

HOLLYWOOD — Besides acting opposite Alice Faye, Mary Martin and Loretta Young, Don Ameche has worked with aliens. And as well as being directed by Erna Lubitsch, he's been directed by Ron Howard.

Shows at contrasts!

The aliens weren't genuine extraterrestrials, of course, but flesh-and-blood performers playing "Cocoon," a new movie. One was Tahnee Welch, daughter of Rachel Welch. Another was Tyrone Power Jr., making his film debut.

As for Ron Howard, he's different not only from Lubitsch but from every other director Ameche's known.

Lubitsch, a director who brought spice with taste to some of the most charming comedies in Hollywood's history, steered Ameche through "Heaven Can Wait," not the one that starred Warren Beatty but an earlier picture with a different plot. Ameche played a good-hearted rogue who thought he was hell-bent but found grace because he'd made so many women happy.

The veteran star recalls that before production began, Lubitsch assembled the cast and said that he and the writer had been working on the script for eight months, polishing and repolishing every line.

"Please don't change a single word," he warned.

This suited Ameche, who says, "I've always believed the director should be the sole person running a picture. Ameche was pleased by Lubitsch was a total joy."

Though Ameche notes that "Ron doesn't have the background Lubitsch had," he enjoyed working with Howard, whose methods amazed him.

"He'd do 12 takes, print five and encourage us to use different dialogue in each."

To help himself improvise, Ameche fantasized a biography for his "Cocoon" character, a senior bon vivant named Art. He says Art was in the Navy for 20 years and became a very good salesman. He'd never married because he was kind of a selfish individual."

Ameche has worked in films of every genre, but "Cocoon" is only the second fantasy in which he's played ("Heaven Can Wait" being the first).

His stardom continued to be so bright that 85-year-old Margaret Sullavan, making her film bow in "Cocoon," was so easily indulged in acting "because I was curious to find out what it was all about" and I wanted to see Don Ameche. If I see Don Ameche, we will take care of everything."

Ameche believes that actors almost never know what's good for them professionally.

"An actor can read a script and know whether it's good," he says, recalling that he didn't want to make "Alexander's Ragtime Band," which was one of his hits. He didn't believe his character would have enough impact and he went to his boss, Darryl Zanuck, to ask to be released. Zanuck told him the character would have plenty of impact — "and he was right," Ameche admits.

The only film he'd really like to escape from the list of cranks is "Gates of Heaven," which, he says, was so terrible he can't even remember who else was in it or who directed it.

"I went to Zanuck about that," Ameche says, "and told him the (See AMECHE, Page 12A)

Law allows for hiring more carnival inspectors

Gov. James R. Thompson has signed legislation that will allow the Department of Labor to more quickly hire new carnival safety inspectors.

"Since the passage of the Carnival and Amusement Rides Safety Act last year, the department has had great difficulty in finding enough practicing mechanical or electrical engineers to inspect structures as required by law. The statute has even prevented the department from hiring other types of engineers, such as structural engineers. The Illinois law is the only one in the nation that requires inspectors to have an engineering degree," Thompson said.

"The department already has nearly a dozen people licensed or ready to assume the job of carnival safety inspectors with the signing of this bill today," he said. "In addition, by removing the restrictions placed on the hiring by the original law, we hope to be able to hire more qualified engineers from the other areas of that field."

The Department of Labor intends to use at least one engineer as part of each inspection team. In addition, the head of the Carnival Inspection Program is an engineer.

Senate Bill 860, which is effective immediately, passed the General Assembly with no dissenting votes.

Trumpet soloist highlights concert

"Stars in a Velvety Sky" by Herbert L. Clarke.

This concert marks the fourth solo appearance by Smith with the Compton Heights Concert Band. A member of the St. Louis Symphony for over 10 years, Smith also has toured with the Boston Pops Orchestra, played with the West Point Band, Quebec National Symphony and Santa Fe Opera Orchestra. He currently is on the music faculties of CASA, Washington University and UML. He has performed with the University City Symphony and the CASA Brass Ensemble.

The "Compton Heights Concert Band also will be featured in a varied program.

script was awful. He said, 'Yes, I know it is, but I'll make it up to you.'

Ameche isn't precisely sure how he was compensated except that Zanuck saved him from other disasters.

He says regretfully that he's not expecting to see Lubitsch-type comedies in the near future — sexy pictures in which sex is suggested, not detailed.

"My analysis of the industry is very simple," Ameche says. "The biggest amount of money comes from people between the ages of 13 and 21. And as long as they are buying the tickets, producers are going to make pictures that appeal to them."

"I have no idea how long this will last. That depends upon the mores of society. Liberties are granted to children now from the time they are 8 and 9 years old, and this affects their tastes. Families aren't doing what they should."

On Entertainment

Fairuza Balk stars as Dorothy in Walt Disney's "Return to Oz."

Return to Oz

Return to Oz is a bleak, high-contrast re-creation of the classic film from 1939.

The real stars of this sequel are the special effects: animation and model process effects the wizards of Disney studios have concocted with millions giving them life — everything is real spirit.

A little girl from Canada named Fairuza Balk is the new Dorothy. Unfortunately she is only a fair actress and has a rather dour expression. Playing Dorothy's faithful friend is Bozo, the flying Moosehead. The evil side also has an interesting assortment, including the Wheeler's who are villains on wheels.

escaping an asylum where her well-meaning mother (Tippi Hedren) has taken her so she can get rid of her bad dreams and overly vivid recollections of what happens during the dreams.

An evil doctor (Nicol Williamson) wants to use shock treatments on Dorothy.

Once she gets back to Oz (along with her talking chicken, Billina), Dorothy discovers Oz is more a war zone than a magic kingdom. Oz has been taken over by a Gnome King (John Goodman) made of Rock and a wicked Princess named Mombi (Jean Marsh) who has 30 beautiful heads all stored in glass display cases. It is Dorothy's job to restore Oz to its former beauty and happiness and repeat the sinful control of the Gnome King, the wicked Princess and their large band of grim henchmen.

Disney has never represented Return to Oz to be a musical and it is not. Music is not there, it is rarely ordinary. The film's mandatory happy ending touts a theme that sounds like a take-off of a portion of the score from the Sting.

Also "staged" in Return to Oz is Jack Pumpkinhead, a mechanical soldier named Tie Tok (the only character in this film with a semblance of personality) and Gump, the flying Moosehead. The evil side also has an interesting assortment, including the Wheeler's who are villains on wheels.

A process called Claymation in Return to Oz makes rocks talk and gives real meaning to the phrase, "a granite expression."

Return to Oz is darkly adventurous and very technical.

Now, if it only had a heart.

Cocoon

Like its title, the new film Cocoon is warm, cozy environment that endures throughout the film.

Directed with expertise and heart by Ron Howard, Cocoon is about retirees in St. Petersburg, Florida, who discover a school of young fish (cocoon) made of you.

It happens as they make their daily trek to a vacant mansion near their retirement home for a dip in a large indoor pool.

They notice large rocks on the floor of the pool and are actually cocoon left by some amicable aliens who have come to earth for one month to retrieve a handful of comrades left behind thousands of years ago.

The energy emanating from the cocoon brings miraculous results to the old guys, curing incurable sickness and making them all feel like teenagers again.

The aliens are serenely played by Brian Dennehy, Tahnee Welch (knockout daughter of Raquel), Tyrone Power, Jr., and Barret Oliver. The trio of retirees include the formidable talents of Wilford Brimley, Don Ameche and Hume Cronyn.

On the distaff side are Maureen Stapleton, Jessica Tandy and Gwen Verdon. Steve Guttenberg plays a debt-ridden boat owner who rents and captains his vessel on behalf of the aliens.

Although Cocoon's ending is predictable, special effects (courtesy of George Lucas's Industrial Light & Magic) are familiar, the movie succeeds on the strength of its humanity as much as anything else.

Cocoon is one more feather in director Ron Howard's cap. Howard seems to understand how to entertain and touch an audience. While watching Cocoon, you may feel he hasn't quite hit his stride.

Although Cocoon is still in the theaters, the movie is picking up momentum. Ron Howard is also making new friends and fans, many of whom have never heard of Mayberry.

Cruise to view steamboat race

Once again, St. Louis has been designated as the finish line for the "Great Mississippi River Steamboat Race" between the Delta Queen and the Mississippi Queen. These two steamboats (the last overnight steam-powered vessels ever built) will start their race in New Orleans and race up-river to St. Louis, with stops at the major river cities.

The final segment of this ten-day race is in the St. Louis harbor from the Mississippi River des Peres to the Arch. In order to provide the public with an opportunity to be along side these steamboats with an unlimited and continuing view, the American Association of Railroaders Inc., a non-profit organization of a local official, has chartered the Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn boats for a special cruise on Sunday, July 7.

Not only will this excursion allow the viewers to see the action up close from the river itself, it will be the only place where photos may be taken of the crossing of the finish line with the St. Louis skyline in the background.

The Delta Queen and Mississippi Queen are both sternwheelers, and the passengers on this excursion will be able to see these big, red paddlewheels creating five-foot waves in the river as their hulls lopides also engage in a musical duel.

Boarding of the boats will take place at 7:15 a.m. and a continental breakfast will be served as the boats cruise down river to meet the Queens. After the steamboats have made their landing, the Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn will return to the dock at 9:30 a.m.

No parking is available on the levee but space is available to the north or south of the bridge. Reservations are required and may be obtained by calling 3422 Osage St., St. Louis, Mo. 63118. The telephone number is 1-314-752-1148.

Elegant Union Station To Be Travel Expo Site

The Advisory Committee for the Suburban Journals' Travel Expo '85 did a little traveling of their own recently, touring the brand new site of this year's show and now - elegant, electric Union Station.

Committee members represent all segments of the travel industry, including airline representatives, motorcoach and tour operators, travel agents and representatives of Omni International Hotel and Suburban Journal.

Members include: Jim German, Bob Koebbe, Julie Scott, Michael Rinkoski, Jim Zide, Steve Stradal, Tim Rinkoski, Gary Zide, Bill Schmidt, Warren Klemm, Michael Holscher, Priscilla DeGuire, Judy Thomas, Mary Lynn Whittaker, Tom Marschall, Hildy McElvain, Linda Buchana, Christy Perisho and Lois Kendall.

The Travel Expo '85, which will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, July 26, and from noon to 7 p.m. Sunday, July 27, will be the first major public event held at the recently renovated St. Louis Union Station.

A cooperative venture of subsidiaries of The Rous Co., Oppenheimer Properties, Inc., Oppenheimer & Co., Omni International Hotels, Union Station is a modern retail marketplace and a luxury hotel in a National Historic Landmark of unsurpassed beauty and elegance.

The limestone facade of the Headhouse - designed in Romanesque style - is made of medieval basicated gate communities of city blocks along Market Street. The 100-foot clock tower is visible from much of downtown St. Louis. The 11.5-acre site, the largest ever built, is an airy pavilion with an glass roof rises 100 feet to the apex. Connecting the Headhouse and the Shed is a bridge known as the Midway, 70 feet wide and 100 feet long. The interior of the Headhouse is elaborately finished with Romanesque arches and columns, vaulted ceilings, hand-painted tile wainscoting, stained glass floors and stained glass windows.

The retail center will comprise approximately 160,000 square feet of space in a setting that will delight the eye and invite exploration. Flower-beaded terraces, sunken plazas alive with the splash of fountains, a man-made lake and landscaped promenades will beckon visitors to walk through specialty shops and restaurants.

The 550-room Omni International Hotel will occupy space in the restored Headhouse and in an entirely new building beneath the arching train shed of the Train Shed.

Amid this architectural splendor, a host of exciting travel destinations will be presented by world class exhibitors at the Suburban Journals Travel Expo. Luxurious location plus dream destinations equals Expo excitement.

'Hosts' add zest to cruise for singles traveling alone

By Lois Kendall
Travel Editor

Have you always loved the idea of taking a cruise, but hated the idea of being surrounded by couples? The romantic image conjured up by the "Love Boat" made you might be afraid to face traveling as a single?

If so, perhaps it's time to call for your travel agent and book that cruise you've always dreamed of. Cruises are, after all, some of the most romantic vacations there are. You won't be alone for long. The contained proximity of other travelers, an abundance of group activities, and the ample assignments at meals are all conducive to making new acquaintances.

In fact, mature single women make up 40 percent of the groups of cruisers, so if you fall in that category, you should never be at a loss for bridge partners, meal companions or someone to accompany you on their excursions.

If, however, you are looking for male companionship, you should know that females far outnumber males on almost any cruise. For this reason, Royal Cruise Line has initiated a unique Host Program to help improve this lopsided situation.

On each cruise since November, 1984, Royal has been placing varying numbers of single gentlemen on each cruise to act as "official hosts aboard the Royal Odyssey and Golden Odyssey." These gentlemen serve as hosts, dining with single playing partners and escort groups of single ladies on shore excursions, to cocktail receptions and other shipboard social activities.

The hosts receive explicit instructions to "mingle," with no favoritism toward any one passenger or group. The hosts, who average 50 to 70, become instant friends to the single woman, widow or divorcee on a ship where everyone seems to be in couples. The Hosts, who are chosen by lottery, partly held the second or third night of each cruise, so the single passengers are aware of their presence and their role.

Their roles do not, however, include romance. Hosts share a stateroom with another Host or cruise-staff member in order to discourage women with romantic inclinations.

According to President Richard Revere, the passenger response has not just positive, but enthusiastic. "Each of these gentlemen has been personally interviewed and selected on the basis of his general congeniality and ability to play cards and balloons dance. Single women passengers, particularly those over 50 years of age, sometimes find it frustrating that there are so few single men aboard cruise ships. They like dancing, dining and parties," he says. "From the letters we have received, there is no doubt that our Host Program has succeeded in providing a great many of our single lady passengers with a more enjoyable cruise experience."

Royal Cruise Line, which also ships the Golden Odyssey and the Royal Odyssey, sail the Mediterranean and Scandinavia during the spring, summer and fall months; in December, the Golden Odyssey transits the Panama Canal. The Odyssey explores the exotic Far East.

Honeymooners' haven

Stouffer's Concierge Hotel, 9801 Natural Bridge Road, has just polished and rechristened its new signs. Formerly the Breckenridge Concierge, it is just two years old this spring and has already gained the prestigious honors of "Gold" ("four stars") and "diamond" ratings - one of only four hotels in the St. Louis area to receive the highest distinctions.

Located directly across from the Lambert International Airport, it "works especially well for all those newlyweds honeymooners flying out of St. Louis," according to a place to spend the night before they leave," according to Director of Marketing John D'Astice.

Stouffer's Concierge offers a special Honeymoon Holiday at three different levels. The most luxurious is in the Presidential suite, which is offered at a special rate of $195 per night. (Normal rate $350.) The Presidential suite contains a huge, king-size room, in-room Jacuzzi, oversized bathtub, a separate small pool, a beautiful view overlooking the airport. Chilled champagne is delivered to the couple's room as an intimate breakfast in bed each morning. Complimentary coffee and newspaper are also delivered room-side, a service offered to all guests. Parking is free.

The same "extras" are offered at $149 for the Executive suite and $95 for the Deluxe guest rooms. "We find that the larger suites appeal to the less expensive ones - they just as soon splurge one night," D'Astice claims.

Two restaurants are available in-house. Fairways, a casual-type dinery serving breakfast, lunch and dinner; and Tivoli's, a gourmet restaurant located on the Penthouse level overlooking the airport. The features nightly musical entertainment plus a breathtaking view of the glittering lights of airplanes taking off and landing. The restaurant serves Sunday brunch at the Tivoli, featuring 40 to 50 different food items, at a cost of $12.95 for adults and $7.95 for children.

One indoor and one outdoor pool, sauna, whirlpool and fitness center complete the elegant complex.

Motorcoach offers companionship, security for single travelers

By Lois Kendall
Travel Editor

Just because you're single doesn't mean you have to travel alone. If you don't have to lift a single suitcase, spend one minute behind the wheel of a car or go through the hassle of setting up a dozen reservations, motorcoaching may be for you.

Motorcoach travel provides the security of a group, the security of companions and the convenience of having all arrangements pre-made and pre-paid. On top of that, it is economical.

Robert Presley, director of marketing for Presley Tours of Makanda, Ill., says, "Motorcoaching is a good way to singles to travel and meet people. Travelers tend to appeal to retired people, and the majority of customers used to be women, so we travel by themselves, let's say. Now we are seeing more couples and younger people as well."

"Motorcoach tours must be structured," Presley says. "It's a basic and some younger travelers want more freedom. We're trying to respond to that, to appeal to that need in the market." It's happening slowly, Presley says.

Presley cites as an example of motorcoaching intertours, one being "Bosnia, Italy, Turkey" and another, the "Tournament of Roses" tour over New Year's. He was able to obtain guaranteed airfares for both packages. "It was difficult, but we got it firm," he says.

Security, companionship, freedom and convenience - they're all part of the "new" motorcoaching. For singles or doubles, it's a good bet.

ed - they stayed home most of their lives, raised their families, and have been around," Presley says. He adds, "Today's singles are more sophisticated, more adventurous, more active. We don't want to treat them like old people."

The market has changed in other aspects as well, according to Presley. In the pre-regular airfare years, "We used to include airfare when quoting a price for our trips. Then, when fares started to go haywire, we could not guarantee our prices anymore," Presley says.

"We could get group fares at lower price and pass the savings along to our customers; but now, with the 'Star Savers,' we often can't get a group price to travel together. Whenever possible, we try to get the whole group to travel together, but it's more difficult now. With fares the way they are, we have an escort available upon boarding and landing, so the people feel more secure," Presley says.

"Motorcoach tours must be structured," Presley says. "It's a basic and some younger travelers want more freedom. We're trying to respond to that, to appeal to that need in the market." It's happening slowly, Presley says.

Presley presently is offering two intertours, one being "Bosnia, Italy, Turkey" and another, the "Tournament of Roses" tour over New Year's. He was able to obtain guaranteed airfares for both packages. "It was difficult, but we got it firm," he says.

Security, companionship, freedom and convenience - they're all part of the "new" motorcoaching. For singles or doubles, it's a good bet.

Travel companion network takes burden off travelers

Do you love to travel? Are you tired of paying those single supplements but don't know anyone who wants to share your travel experiences? Now there is a new alternative to single travel. It is Travel Companions Network.

This newly formed group realizes that the burdens of the single traveler are compounded financially by single supplements. Dining, sightseeing, picture taking—indeed, the actual travel itself with airport hassles, baggage handling or the single problem of finding a place to stay all put the heartiest traveler. Besides, it is simply more enjoyable to go with someone who shares similar travel interests. Travel Companions Network specializes in putting its members in touch with such persons.

For a $2 fee, members receive a list of potential companions and the individuals to contact each other and, perhaps over coffee or a luncheon, to select the most desirable companion.

'Meet me at the Centre!'

When St. Louis Centre opens its doors to the public this summer, it will hold the distinction of being the largest downtown enclosed mall in the nation. The Centre connects St. Louis' major department stores, food stores, the May Department Stores Company's Famous-Barr and Dillards' Sixt, Baer & Fuller, in one of the most extensive urban redevel-

In addition to a four-level, enclosed retail shopping mall, the Centre includes a 21-story office tower atop the 10-story 29-story hotel tower and a 1,400-car parking facility. The parking area is already in use, while the office tower and the hotel are scheduled to open early next year.

Each level will have its own distinctive personality. The street level will feature office services, restaurants packed with fine dining, specialty and larger restaurants. The second level will be similar to a suburban mall, with ready-to-eat areas, a food court and popular-priced items. Designer merchandise and upscale shops will be on the third level, and the top floor will be divided between shops featuring clothing, accessories and 20 specialty food vendors arranged around seating for 800 in the "Taste of St. Louis" food fair.

The Centre will include a unique mix of local, regional and national merchants and restaurants, many of which are new to the St. Louis market. Some initial tenants include Abercrombie & Fitch, Empanada's, Brookstone, Ann Taylor, Over-The-Rainbow, the Sport Shop and Michel's Baguette among 150 other tenants.

Twain exhibit in capitol

A special exhibit on Mark Twain, "Mark Twain Sesquicentennial 1835-1885: Growing Up in Missouri," is being displayed in the Missouri State Capitol throughout the summer. Twain's boyhood childhood (1835-1853) is depicted in this exhibit of photographs and artifacts.

Samuel Langhorne Clemens, more popularly known as Mark Twain, was born in Florida, Mo., in 1835. He and his family lived there for four years before moving to Hannibal. His father's death in 1847 left the family in financial difficulties. Although Samuel was only 12, he became an apprentice to a local printer to help support the family. His Missouri childhood ended in 1853 when he set out from Hannibal to make his way as a journeyman printer.

Samuel Clemens' childhood memories profoundly affected the writings of Mark Twain, and many quotations from Mark Twain's works are included in this special exhibit. His own words vividly capture the mood of the times.

During the years he lived in Missouri, great changes were taking place in the state. The industrial age was dawning, the conquest of the West had begun, and the national debate over slavery presented a major social issue to come. This history, as well as Samuel Clemens' childhood, depicted in the special exhibit designed by Missouri Department of Natural Resources, can be viewed at the Missouri State Museum.

This special exhibit celebrating the sesquicentennial of Missouri's statehood and bicentennial may be viewed daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Missouri State Capitol. For more information on the exhibit, call the Missouri State Museum at 314-751-2854.

Delta Queen Steamboat Plans Four Rivers' Vacation Cruises

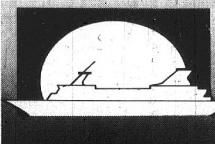

The legendary Delta Queen Steamboat is offering three eight-night "Four Rivers" vacation cruises.

Scheduled during the lush summer months of July and August, these unique vacations will carry passengers along the Ohio River, Mississippi, Tennessee and Cumberland Rivers, areas steeped in American history. These one-of-a-kind steamboat vacations will begin and end in St. Louis, with numerous shore stops along the way.

When the Delta Queen pulls into Nashville, Tenn., on the fifth day of her steamer vacation, she will be greeted by a newcomer to the Cumberland River—the General Jackson Showboat, newest and most exquisite addition to Opryland USA.

With the General Jackson making the Delta Queen, both grand paddlewheelers will salute one another with a fanfare of whistles and calls. After the two boats pass each other, passengers will have plenty of time to visit the Grand Ole Opry, Opryland USA theme park and other parts of the city that have made St. Louis a country/Western star in the country.

The Inaugural "Four Rivers" cruise, setting sail on July 12, has a special attraction—performances by the highly acclaimed John Hartford. Hartford will be celebrity host of the four-night cruise, performing his original songs and reminiscing about his life on the river.

In addition to the July 12 departure cruise with 12 days, Aug. 3 and 11, fares for all three cruises begin at $1,480 per person, double occupancy. All "Four Rivers" vacation cruises have a special "Children Free" rate.

For more information, contact the Delta Queen Steamboat Co., #90 Robin Street Wharf, New Orleans, LA 70130. Their toll-free number is (800) 543-1949.

How To Bring Your Family Back Together.

Come Back To Good Times From The Good Old Days.

Families everywhere are looking for the perfect getaway this summer. And they're finding it by going back. Back 100 years to Silver Dollar City. Back to a unique community where adults and children can experience together the fun, the learning, and the excitement of living and playing in the good old days when America was young.

Back To The New Adventure Of The Lost River of The Ozarks.

This exciting new ride is the biggest addition ever made to Silver Dollar City. It takes you on a fun-filled adventure down a wild, uncharted river. You challenge raging rapids with sudden twists and turns that will leave you breathless. Then suddenly your boat is swallowed up in a fog-shrouded cave.

Hold on. You're about to discover the mystery of the Lost River of The Ozarks. Wow!

Back To A Free Evening Music Show That's Bigger And Better.

Last year more than 350,000 people enjoyed the Silver Dollar Jubilee Show in Echo Hollow® at Silver Dollar City. This year, people who like real country music enjoyed the Jubilee Show in a one-hour TV Special on CBN, and on The Pat Boone USA Show. And every week, country music fans enjoy the Silver Dollar Jubilee Show on radio.

Now you can enjoy Rodney Dillard and the Silver Dollar Jubilee Show at Silver Dollar City Monday through Saturday. This 2-hour music show, now bigger and better than ever—is still free to our guests.

Back To Good Time Entertainment.

On Sunday evenings, guests of Silver Dollar City can enjoy The Texans (formerly the Masters Four) in an inspirational evening of close harmony singing and good old gospel music. This show is also free to Silver Dollar City guests.

During the daytime, you'll enjoy all these wholesome family shows like Grand Ole Opry regular Harold Morrison and his bluegrass band, and Medicine Show Minstrel Danny Eakins join The Horse Creek Band to fill Silver Dollar City with good old country music.

The River Rat Rowdies Ragtime Review and The Saloon Show provide non-stop singing and dancing, music and comedy for adults and children to share.

And Hatfield's Haint is a frighteningly funny comedy show the whole family will enjoy.

Back To More Entertaining Craft Demonstrations.

And now you can enjoy more than 20 new Special Crafts Demonstrations that bring old-time ways to life in more interesting, more entertaining ways than ever before. Come see more authentic crafts demonstrations here than any other place in America.

Also new this year is the Master Craftsman of the Week. Come meet the finest craftsfolk from all over America and marvel at their talents and artistry.

Back To Farm-Fresh Foods In Charming Restaurants.

Only at Silver Dollar City can you dine in a mine and enjoy all-you-can-eat meals including our famous Smoked-Meat Dinner. Or enjoy a shaved ham and cheese sandwich on a fresh baked bun in The Springhouse. Start your day with a hearty breakfast in The Mill. Have barbecue chicken broiled over mesquite wood fires at Captain Bill's. And don't miss the desserts our baker swear are made with love, not calories. You'll love them.

Back To More-For-Your-Money Values, Too.

Silver Dollar City is more than a day of fun. So you can come any day after 3, and come back the next day free. Free parking, too. And a free guided tour of Marvel Cave, third largest in America.

And this year there's a new low admission price for children under 12. Children also enjoy all-they-can-eat meals for just $1.95.

Free Travel Information And Reservation Service.

For lodging, Silver Dollar City Campground reservations and free travel information call toll-free. In Missouri, call 1-800-492-7092. Outside Missouri, call 1-800-641-4202. Call now. No obligation, of course.

Isn't It Time You Went Back?

Come After 3—Next Day Free.
'Cause There's So Much Fun You Can't Do It All In One Day.

Beware the deluge of federal deficit

Apres moi, le déluge.

The old rake Louis XV was said to have uttered the words, "After me, the deluge," although some say one of his mistresses, Madame de Pompadour, actually said, "Apres nous (us), le déluge."

In any case, the thought was the same: The French people were impoverished and increasingly repressive, and corrupt Louis and his swinging girlfriends were having a wonderful, dissolute time, and thus they decided to devote themselves totally to self-gratification before the flood — the French Revolution engulfed them.

The utterances of Louis and Mme. de Pompadour are not irrelevant today. We have a federal budget deficit accounting for around 5 percent of total economic output, and nearly unanimous agreement among economists left and right that it is urgently necessary to slash that deficit. Yet the Republican-controlled Senate restores full retirement benefits to military veterans and government employees, and decides to jettison a proposed curtailment of Social Security inflation adjustments, even though every senator knows that Social Security is bankrupt. The solons then make small, token cuts in the defense budget, and proclaim a victory over spending! The press misses the story; it's paranoid over President Reagan's itinerary in Germany, while students massively protest affairs in far-off South Africa.

But it isn't just the wastrels in Congress setting us up for an economic deluge. U.S. corporations poured a staggering $133 billion into mergers last year — many of them arranged to fight off raids from entrepreneurs with clear ties to the vice industries. The raiders took control of the dollar and junk bonds onto the market to finance their takeovers — and some economists say such activity is actually beneficial because it keeps management on their toes!

Meanwhile, once-rational Wall Street analysts tell corporations that it's folly to have clean balance sheets — what they need to fend off raiders is lots of debt, especially if it's piled up to pay out (so-called a "poison pill"). If you do stupid things, the raider won't want you.) Again, the press misses the story: It idolizes the dubiously financed raiders as the modern equivalents of Robin Hood. (You can put the emphasis on that word "Hood.")

The economic statistics are equally dismal and goldilocks-like. Consumer installment credit surges a record $104 billion in February. The ratio of consumer installment debt to spending power rises to 17.5 percent — just a little lower than the all-time high of 17.8 percent in late 1979. Where are the consumers spending this money? Hint: Young women are wearing hairdos that look suspiciously like a combination of a Mohawk and a pompadour.

Oil prices, which have declined by one-third in real (inflation-adjusted) terms, stabilize and start rising. The dollar, which has gone up by 75 percent, starts falling.

Coke still good buy

Now that the hoopla over Coca-Cola's formula change is dying down, perhaps the true risk to the company is changing tastes can be assessed.

With fanfare that rivaled a good old Fourth of July celebration, the Coca-Cola Co. announced on April 23 that its major brand — Coke — had been reformulated with a taste that the company described as lighter and sweeter.

Immediately the media developed comparison tests between old and new Coke, and between Coke and rival Pepsi-Cola, which claimed Coke had surrendered in the battle of the soft drinks.

Stokes followed up with discount pricing of the new Coke, while the company waited with crossed fingers to see what the consumer reaction would be.

But what is the real risk to the Coca-Cola Co. if the new taste proves to be a dud?

Salomon Brothers Inc., a major Wall Street investment house, has studied the taste switch and has concluded that the company re-

The strong dollar and falling oil prices have held down inflation more than any other factors.

Productivity declined 1.3 percent in the first quarter. Economists attempt to explain it away by saying that we're shifting toward a services economy, where productivity is traditionally lower. However, manufacturing productivity is also fading fast: It has risen just 2.5 percent over the past four quarters, the worst performance since 1955. Business investment is growing, but still below pre-1973 levels.

The nation faces a new situation: the possibility of being done in by a combination of the trade deficit and the federal deficit. Almost everyone agrees the dollar must come down. That means U.S. interest rates must recede. Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker has indicated he will continue to be easy, and the monetary aggregates are rising at 8 percent to 10 percent rates.

may or may not happen. Positive anti-inflation factors such as a strengthening of the dollar or another decline in oil prices might offset the negatives I have cited. I certainly hope so.

But keep one thing in mind: le déluge. When it returns, inflation is likely to come back with ferocity. With our deregulated interest rate structure, inflation and interest rates chase each other to high peaks before the economy is braked. We could repeat the pattern of the 1970s: Once the markets reach a critical mass — concluding that the Fed and the government are setting us up for future inflation — the psychology can change overnight and inflation could soar into double digits quickly. I don't think it will happen soon — but when it comes, don't look for a trickle.

Don't get deeply into debt, don't get gammy and stay liquid. (But not liquid like Louis XV and Mme. Pompadour.)

Now you can get a cellular mobile phone for just the right price.

Right now, for a limited time, you can get a Southwestern Bell Mobile Systems cellular phone for two months, absolutely free. You only pay for the time you talk.*

Make your resume work extra hard for you

Q. I am 74, but could easily pass for 60. Although I'm retired, I would like to go back to work, even part time.

What do you think of the enclosed resume? — N.M., one of your faithful fans

A. I don't do resumes here, but for a "faithful fan" I recommend an objective at the top, i.e., a short an objective at the top; i.e., a short statement of what kind of work you want. Under that, another paragraph that lists your skills.

Have you tried the temporary agencies? They often have clerical work for someone of your skills. How about firms that take inventories (Yellow Pages under "Inventory Service")? Or night clerk in a motel, hotel or all-night convenience store? McDonald's has a company policy to encourage hiring of seniors.

As to resumes in general, the most essential but neglected item is what was accomplished while in a job. Just being there is not enough to qualify for another, better position, particularly when there is a lot of competition. State-there is a lot of competition. Statements like, "Cut costs — percent," "Increased sales — percent," or, "Perfect attendance for — years" attract attention by making you stand out above others.

You should have at least one or two special accomplishments listed for every job you've held. I know this may be tough for blue- and white-collar workers, but think hard! How did your performance stand out above others? If you can't think of anything, the fact that you are a blue- or white-collar worker who has taken the trouble to prepare a resume will help you stand out. Your public library has books on how to do

Moral: A resume, like any sales tool, must attract attention. The best attention getters are skills and accomplishments.

Q. About 10 years ago, while working for a foreign company, I discovered that one of their vice presidents was stealing. I flew overseas at my own expense to the company's headquarters to present the evidence. They repaid me by demanding my resignation; subsequently, the company found me out and "retired" him.

Shortly after I "resigned," I was selected — after a national search — as the "successful" candidate for a better job with a similar company. But I never received a job offer, and the company never gave me a plausible explanation as to why.

Now, 10 years later, I have been told by a source within the executive office of my previous employer that they gave me a bad reference.

Is there anything I can do now?

Coke

mains a good buy for investors even while consumers are being weaned off the old Coke.
The reasons why?

"In grocery outlets in the United States — where we believe that the Coke brand is truly at risk — company sales and operating profits are roughly $400 million and $100 million, respectively, or only 7 percent of the corporate total," Salomon Brothers said. The Coke you buy in the store amounts to only 30 percent of the brand's vol-

And foreign sales account for percent of Coke's volume. When you go out to eat, or drop coins into vending machines or a cola drink, the chances are at the beverage served will be coke. Often, there is no choice.

"About 35 percent of Coke's domestic volume is sold through restaurants and other syrup accounts," he said.

"In our view, the risk of failure for new Coke exists only where the consumer can make an alternative soft drink choice," the invest-

And in the final analysis, the importance of taste may be secondary to another factor.

"Most soft drink consumers are die-hard Coke or Pepsi loyalists," Salomon Brothers said. Image is the name of the game. Michael Jackson, Lionel Richie, Ricky Martin and Geraldine Ferraro produce effective advertisements, despite making no taste impressions.

"New Coke gives the company a fresh domestic advertising campaign," Salomon Brothers noted.

Ants on parade and picknickers, too

By Verne Palmer
Copley News Service

Balmy spring days, clear blue skies and a patch of grass or seashore are all open invitations to take your meals outdoors and enjoy. In a word, head for the nearest park or shore and PICNIC!

The ideal picnic is one you can enjoy before, during and after it's over. To enjoy your picnic before and during those long, lazy hours, keep the menu simple and preparations a minimum.

To enjoy it afterward, stay healthy! As unwise as the ants that usually plague a picnic are the symptoms of poor picnic food handling: upset stomach, cramps, diarrhea and sometimes fever.

You can keep your picnic safe and simple by planning a menu loaded with fresh fruits and vegetables; smoked or cured meats such as ham, hot dogs, sausage and cold cuts; preserved condiments such as jams, pickles and marinated vegetables; packaged goods such as crackers and chips, and unfrosted cakes, muffins and cookies.

That doesn't mean you have to forgo those wonderful potato and pasta salads, fried chicken, deviled eggs, baked beans, etc.; just keep them at a minimum and make sure the foods stay hot and their food safety.

Foods particularly susceptible to bacterial growth are raw meat, poultry, fish, milk and eggs.

How much food will you need? Everyone agrees that food never tastes better than when it's eaten outdoors, and active games add an extra edge to appetites, so plan for extra helpings. Some general guidelines follow:

Hot dogs: Plan on an average of two hot dogs per person per adult (counting teenagers as adults) and one and a half per child.

Cold meat sandwiches: For those who prefer sandwiches, sandwiches consisting of 3 ounces of meat and a 1-ounce slice of cheese (plus condiments) on a kaiser or onion roll or sesame bun, allow an average of one and a half per adult and one per child. Try cutting the sandwiches in half so everyone will get to try at least two different varieties.

Salads: A standard serving of potato salad is  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup for children. Allow 1 cup of potatoes for four average servings. If several other side dishes are served, one serving per person may be enough. If it is the only starchy side dish on the menu, you may need as much as 1 cup.

For tossed green salads, allow a cup per serving.

Baked beans: One 16-ounce can will make about three servings, but allow for some seconds. In cooking dry beans, keep in mind that 1 pound cooks up to 5 or 6 cups.

Fresh fruit: If fruit is the only dessert, allow one and a half to two average pieces per person, a fourth of a melon or  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  pound of grapes. A large watermelon yields about 16 servings.

Desserts: Allow three to four cookies and up to two slices of cake or quick bread or muffins, depending on size.

Beverages: The temperature and length of the picnic will have a lot to do with how much liquid is consumed, but on average allow one drink per person every 45 minutes. Children usually drink only one-third to one-half a can of soft drink, so include paper cups so they can be shared.

A selection of nutritious picnic food ideas follows.

PICNIC PITAS

$\frac{1}{2}$  cups finely shredded cabbage
1 ( $\frac{1}{2}$  oz.) can shrimp, drained and rinsed
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup finely chopped celery
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup shredded carrot
2 tbsps raisins, if desired
2 tbsps mayonnaise
1 tbsp spicy deli mustard

$\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. curry powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. salt
3 medium-size pita bread pockets, cut in half

Combine all ingredients except pita bread. Stuff pita bread with shrimp mixture. Makes 4 servings.

FRUIT NIBBLES

$\frac{1}{4}$  cup confectioners sugar
2 tbsps. lemon juice
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup ground ginger
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. paprika
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup oil
8 cups cut-up fresh fruit

In small bowl, combine sugar, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, ginger and paprika. Gradually add oil, beating briskly with whisk until slightly thickened. Toss with fruit.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

ZUCCHINI CARROT BREAD

$\frac{2}{3}$  cup granulated sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup firmly packed brown sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup oil
1 tsp. vanilla
2 eggs
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup mashed potato flakes
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsps. orange peel

1 tsp. ground cinnamon
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. ground nutmeg
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. allspice

$\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup buttermilk
1 cup shredded zucchini
1 cup shredded carrots
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup chopped pecans

Beat together sugar, brown sugar, oil and vanilla. Beat in eggs, one at a time.

Combine flour, potato flakes, orange peel, cinnamon, soda, salt, nutmeg, allspice and baking powder. Add to sugar mixture alternately with buttermilk. Beat until well combined. Stir in zucchini, carrot and pecans.

Pour into well-greased, well-floured 9x5-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 F for 55 to 65 minutes, until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes, remove from pan and cool completely before slicing.

Makes 1 loaf.

Letting out wine

By Dan Berger
Copley News Service

It has taken a few years, but California winemakers are finally beginning to make Chardonnays that offer the lean, delicate scents and crisp flavors that can make this wine a classic.

Things wrong with California Chardonnays for a long time were a) alcohols that were too high, b) acidity that wasn't natural but had come out of a bag of powdered acid, c) heavy wood flavors from excessive time in the aging kind of oak barrels, d) slight amounts of residual sugars that lent a lusciousness to the wines and e) oxidation from careless handling and contact with the air.

These wines were obvious heady and easy to like. They won medals in major wine competitions because judges felt comfortable with wines that so clearly appeared to be Chardonnay; no need to taste the wine, it stood up and shouted "I am Chardonnay!" Although it mostly was the wood that was speaking.

Today, wine makers have found that they can make better wine with more carefully honed flavors. This may have happened partly because they have made wine long enough now to see what happens to their best efforts with time in the bottle. The wine collapses under its own weight, tasting far less fruity and far more woody and heavy as time goes on.

Dr. Robert Logan, the wine maker at Cuavison in the Naperville Valley, has a theory on what is happening. It is, he feels, wine makers' realization that oak barrels can be overused, and that cooler climates make fine Chardonnay grapes, and that natural acidity is better than anything from a bag, and that picking grapes earlier is better than picking them later.

In addition, Logan feels that the (See WINE, Page 4C)

The bittersweet story of honey

Honey is often touted as a beneficial food because of its quick absorption, protein and lack of preservatives and additives.

But amid the back-to-nature hype about honey's virtues lies a forgotten principle: It's simply a sweet food with few nutrients.

"There's nothing more hypocritical than granola bars with honey and chocolate chips dipped in chocolate," says Sandra Eardley, a registered dietitian.

Perhaps honey's greatest contribution is in the unique flavor it contributes to foods in which it's an ingredient. However, it's simply another carbohydrate food, mostly sugar, that serves as a source of energy rather than as a nutrient.

The point is, honey really isn't any more nutritious than sugar. Because the amounts of worthwhile nutrients in honey are so small, to consume enough to be significant would mean eating more than is good for you.

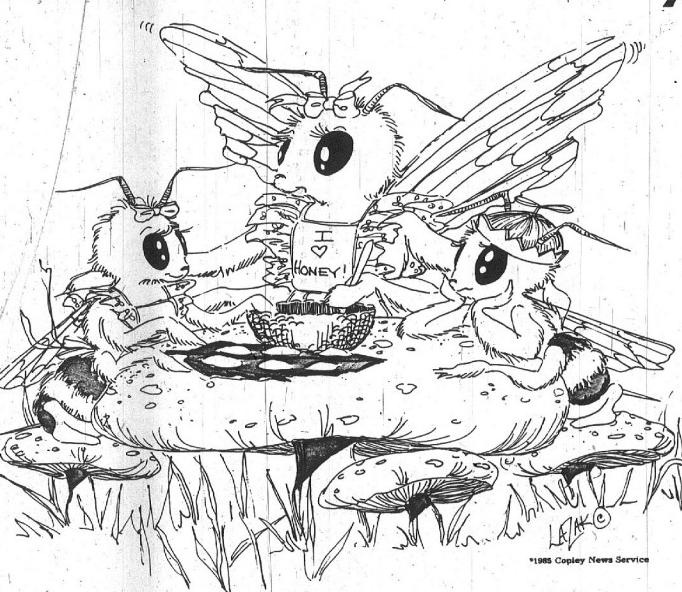

In short, foods teach Nancy Wisseler, unless they're going to eat something sweet, honey is better.

Honey at least has some nutrient value, even though it's small. Sugar absolutely has no vitamins or minerals."

She contends, however, that consumers need to eat less of all kinds of sugar in general.

Consumption of honey has increased from 16.9 million gallons in 1982 to over 25 million gallons in 1982. Florida and North Dakota lead in honey production.

Honey is marketed in several forms, including liquid, comb, cut comb, solid and honey. Liquid honey, the most popular form, is produced by forcing the honey from the comb and filtering it free of crystals. Centrifugal force is used to extract the liquid honey from the comb. Then it is strained to remove all solid sediment and is pasteurized.

*1985 Copley News Service

The origin of the honey usually determines its price. Honey specified as clover honey commands a hefty price compared to a generic jar (which could even contain corn syrup unless it is specifically marked "pure honey").

Most important, says Wisseler, is to have an idea of how it's been processed. The more processing, the less nutritive value left in the honey.

Honey needs no refrigeration, but should be stored in a tightly covered container in a dark, cool place. Should it crystallize, it can be reliquified by placing the container in warm water or a 200 F oven.

A few changes must be made to substitute honey for granular

Trim your diet of hidden fats

By Shirley Bright Boddy
Registered Dietitian
Copley News Service

Dear Shirley: I'm supposed to cut back on meat in my diet because I have developed a heart problem. I have already cut down on margarine and salad dressings, and I always trim the fat from meats.

I've read that fat is hidden in many foods, and I would like to know about other foods that contain a lot of fat. Can you tell me?

Mrs. S.M.

Dear Mrs. S.M.: Of the 20 major sources of dietary fat, the top five most apt to have hidden fats are cookies and cakes, peanuts and other nuts, luncheon meats and hot dogs, whole milk and whole cheese products, and mayonnaise and salad dressings.

One simple way to cut down without giving them all up entirely is to simply take half portions and use them less frequently. Buy low-calorie dressings and use plain yogurt and mustards instead of mayonnaise. Use low-fat or skim milk, cheese and yogurt in such multiple-course main dishes. Use nuts and cheeses mostly as garnishes rather than as major ingredients. You can lower the fat in recipes for most breakfast breads, muffins and quick mixes by substituting skim milk and water for half of the suggested oil.

Check your market for low-fat or non-fat products, and use more fresh fruits and vegetables in your menus.

Dear Shirley: I am a 27-year-old woman, and I have just started an aerobic dancing class in addition to my daily 30 minutes of jogging. I am trying to get into better physical shape and am going on a stringent diet. I eat just about everything, but less of it.

My instructor at the aerobics class said I should be taking more of a certain vitamin because I am exercising so much. She wasn't sure which one it was, but she said she let me know. I'm not sure how much she knows about nutrition, so I thought I'd ask you if there any special vitamin that helps women who exercise a lot?

New products made microwaving even easier

By Desiree Vives
Copley News Service

If you're in the market for microwave cookware, check out the new "Visions" line by Corning. While it can be used for conventional range or oven cooking, it boasts some real microwave advantages.

"Visions" cookware is made of a transparent glass-ceramic material that Corning claims will withstand any temperature extremes found in the kitchen. Because it will not break, even with sudden extreme temperature changes, "Visions" can go directly from freezer to microwave.

Since the cookware is transparent, you can watch foods as they microwave — and maybe prevent a boil-over or two. This feature is especially useful when microwaving delicate sauces that you don't want to overcook. And unlike some glass containers, this cookware's ultra-hard surface will withstand the use of any metal utensils.

The "Visions" line includes a lipped saucier, various sizes of covered saucers, a steamer/steamer pot and a double boiler.

For information on "Visions" cookware, write to: Corning Glass Works, P.O. Box 1367, Corning, NY 14830.

Another product of interest to the microwave set is Proctor & Gamble's Bounty Microwave paper towels. Regular paper towels may be pressed from recycled paper and may contain metal particles. Bounty, the first paper towel specifically designed for microwave use, contains no dyes, colors or tints, and costs about the same as the regular product.

CURRIED FRUITED CHICKEN FOR TWO

2 chicken breasts
Dash salt
Dash pepper
Dash garlic powder
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 tbsps. lemon juice
1 medium-size ripe pear, or two canned pear halves
½ medium green pepper, cut into strips
3 tbsps. chopped onion
½ tsp. curry powder
½ cup sour cream
Paprika
Chopped green onion, for garnish

Skin and bone chicken breasts. Sprinkle lightly with salt, pepper and garlic powder, and place in two individual glass baking dishes. In small glass dish heat a little spoon butter for 30 seconds, until melted. Stir in lemon juice and brush over chicken.

Meanwhile, prepare patty shells according to package directions. To serve, scoop ice cream into pattie shells and top with Rum Raisin Sauce. Return leftover ice cream to freezer and save for refrigerator. Makes 6 servings.

Rum Raisin Sauce
Reserve sweetened condensed milk (about ½ cup)
1 egg yolk
½ cup margarine or butter
½ tsp. maple flavoring
1 cup (1½ pint) whipping cream, well-chilled
1 (10-oz.) pkg. frozen patty shells
Rum Raisin Sauce
In small saucers, melt margarine and sugar, set aside. In large bowl, beat egg yolk; stir in ½ cup sweetened condensed milk and maple flavoring.
Rum Raisin sauce: remaining sweetened condensed milk for sauce; refrigerate.
Fold in whipped cream and pecans.
Pour into 1-quart container; cover. Freeze 4 hours or until firm.

Makes one sandwich.

Tuna Trimmer Sandwich
2 slices wheat bread
2 tbsps. diet margarine
½ cup water-packed tuna, drained
1 tbsps. mayonnaise
2 tbsps. plain yogurt or low-calorie mayonnaise
Pinch dried dill weed
½ to 1 tbsps. lemon juice
A few lettuce leaves
Spread bread slices with margarine.
Combine tuna, yogurt, dill weed and lemon juice.
Top one bread slice with tuna mixture. Top with lettuce and close with remaining bread slice.
Makes one sandwich.

Bit Of Britain Meets Sweet Cherries In Warm Bread

The very word, inspires nostalgic recollections of sunny days and smiling cooks and hot breads. Whether it's pronounced to rhyme with "you" or "oo," it can become a home specialty during this fresh sweet cherry season.

Cherry-Studded Scones are a great combination of the fruit's short season. Today's cook can take advantage of timesavers like a food processor when preparing this recipe.

Cherry-Studded Scones
1½ cups all-purpose flour
½ cup whole-wheat flour
2 tbsps. sugar
3 tbsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ cup shortening, butter or margarine
½ cup buttermilk
2 eggs
½ cup finely chopped fresh sweet cherries

Process flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and shortening in food processor until coarsely crumbled. Combine buttermilk and eggs. Add all at once to dry ingredients; process just long enough to moisten.

If mixing by hand, combine dry ingredients and cut in butter with fingers. Add 2 tbsps. of buttermilk and egg just until moistened.

Dust dough in half; pat each half into 9-inch circle on lightly floured board. Place one half on greased baking sheet; top with cherries.

Place second half of dough on top. Gently press into 12 wedges.

Beat remaining egg; brush top layer.

Bake at 400° about 20 minutes or until golden brown.

Cut into 12 wedges. Serve with honey, butter and/or whipped cream cheese.

Tips

Dear Cindy: I am glad you are getting so much exercise. It will do a lot for you. You mention you are referring to isocalled riboflavin, one of the B-complex vitamins. Recent scientific studies showed that healthy young women seem to need more riboflavin than is recommended. Women don't exercise, and that brings in all ages who exercise regularly need as much as double the recommended daily allowance, which is 0.6 milligrams for every 1,000 calories, or about 1.2 milligrams per day.

Add cucumber slices, cover tightly with plastic wrap and microwave 1 minute.

Combine both cans of chicken broth in 4-cup glass measure and microwave 6 minutes, or until boiling. Add broth to cucumber, stirring along with dill and parsley. Cover and microwave 8 to 10 minutes, stirring after 5 minutes. Cucumbers should be tender.

Dissolve gelatin in cold water and add to bowl, stirring well. Let broth cool to lukewarm, then blend in sour cream and beat for 1 minute with wire whisk. Puree mixture in blender until smooth, then strain through strainer back into bowl.

With wooden spoon, press liquid from puree into bowl. Add salt and pepper, and cover with plastic wrap. Chill several hours before serving.

Serves 6.

RECIPES IN THIS COLUMN ARE TESTED IN 600- TO 700-WATT MICROWAVE OVENS. FOODS ARE COOKED ON HIGH (100 PERCENT POWER) AND UNCOVERED UNLESS OTHERWISE SPECIFIED.

prepare. I do worry, though, that we might not be getting all the nutrients we need. I give my three kids and my husband vitamins daily. Does that make up for not having fresh foods? Can you give me any tips? — Mrs. L.H.

Dear Mrs. L.H.: As long as you feed your family a wide variety of meats, fish, fowl, fruits and vegetables, dairy products and whole grains, it is perfectly all right to include some frozen and canned foods. Just wash, slice and serve.

Taking vitamin supplements is OK as long as you are careful not to take huge quantities. Overdoses of vitamins are especially dangerous to children. Vitamins don't provide fiber, either, so use whole grain breads and cereals along with fresh fruits and vegetables.

Barbecues play center stage at 4th of July extravaganzas

The American pastime of cooking outdoors will hit an all-time high again this year. The Fourth of July barbecue is its forte' for the summer.

Estimates from the Barbecue Industry Assn. indicate that Americans will spend a total of $5.9 billion on barbecue equipment and accessories this season. That figure includes $570 million for barbecue grills, $418 million for charcoal briquets, $143 million for lighter products and $31 million for tools and equipment. The bulk of barbecue expenses, however, are for food and grocery items—about 81 percent or $4.8 billion.

What makes cooking outdoors so popular in America? Consumers like the unforgettable outdoor flavor preparing food on a grill adds to naturally flavorful food.

There's no better way to any cut that cooks indoors by dry heat can cook on the outdoor grill. Even less tender cuts of high quality meat survive the grill well. This includes beef cuts like chuck steak or boneless chuck roasts, top round steak or boneless top round roasts. Boneless chops are also good.

Today's cuts also like fast and hassle-free meals. Steak, kabobs and burgers take just minutes to cook on the grill, with no pots and pans to wash later.

Novices to outdoor cooking find it's easy as fun, to cook larger beef cuts, such as steaks, brisket and whole side of beef ribs, on the grill. Their flavors are enhanced by the use of the secret family sauce and/or marinades.

Before sampling mouth-watering entrees, the fire must be prepared.

The use of charcoal grills can be done with heavy-duty aluminum foil to make cleanup easier. Grills with vents should not be lined, or the necessary air flow will be blocked in the firebox.

Place briquettes in the firebox, pyramid-style, starting about 20 to 30 minutes before cooking begins. Use about three pounds of briquettes per fire, varying this amount with the size of the grill and the amount of liquid or electric starter. Wait about 10 minutes, then light. To use an electric starter, insert into the coals about eight minutes, then unplug and remove.

The fire is ready when the coals are covered with a gray ash and glowing red centers. Spread out the coals in a single layer with tongs for direct cooking of steaks, burgers and other quick-cooking foods.

To lower the cooking temperature, spread coals farther apart or raise the grid, if possible. To make a fire last longer, cover the coals with ashes together and tap off the ash. If slower, indirect cooking for roasts and other slow-cooked foods, is used, place the meat in a roasting pan surrounded with aluminum foil inside of a drip pan. It also is handy to use a spritzer bottle to sprinkle the coals in case of flare-ups.

Aromatic wood cubes are a popular addition to charcoal fires. The most compatible wood flavors with beef are mesquite, oak, hickory, cherry and grapevine.

Once the coals are hot, place wood chunks on top of the briquettes and wait about five minutes for the smoke to start developing before cooking. Start with about one or two wood chunks per pound of meat. If fire is dimmed, add more wood chunks. Wood flavor is intensified if the chunks are soaked previously in water and then dried if a grill cover is placed on a covered cooker or water smoker.

Two sets of long tongs come in handy—one for handling the coals, one for handling the meat. A basting brush is especially essential for brushing marinades on steaks, kabobs or burgers. A spritzer is standard or rapid response meat thermometer is important when cooking roasts on the grill.

Channel 4 anchors drop twice in the same harbor

Dan & Julius: Channel 4 anchors set sail from the same pier

When I was a kid, there were no black role models in broadcast, so I had no idea this is where I would end up.

There was only the Nat King Cole show, and I didn't know what to do because they couldn't find sponsors for it.

I did know, though, that I would be involved with television.

When I attended Cole School, my teachers always reported that 'Julius' is a good student but he talks too much.

I hope they can see me now!

There were four real sources of strength and inspiration in my life.

My mother raised my three sisters and me without the help of a father and never let us know we were poor.

My grandmother, Julia, taught me and told me 'Son, you can do anything you want. If you ever think you need a helping hand there is a perfectly good one at the end of your arm.'

My piano teacher was like a father to me. He was a brilliant musician and channeled me into being a good person.

Johnetta Jackson, my fifth grade teacher, encouraged me to write poems, pursue music and get involved in stage productions. She gave me my first dictionary. I used to read it at night before going to bed.

Julius Hunter

When I was in the fourth grade, I knew I wanted to get into broadcasting. I could never see me doing anything else. From the time I was very young, my family and education were my goals in life.

My family did not have what you would call status in the community. My father was a truck driver and my mother was a clerk for a dry cleaner's.

But my family was always interested in the news and newspapers. We would talk about politics and events happening in the city at the dinner table.

This mentality of knowing and understanding current events was instilled in me and I used it as I continued my education.

I also listened to the radio a lot and was influenced by some of the popular stations. Do you remember Johnny Rabbitt (of KXOK)?

Dan Gray

Television personalities are poised and polished on the air, seldom belying the sometimes struggle it took to get there.

The stories recounting the beginnings of KMOX-TV's co-anchors, Dan Gray and Julius Hunter, contrasted greatly with the tube with Gray's directness.

And although the means to the end were obviously opposite, the two co-anchors had a similar start in a newscast at 6 and 10 p.m., started with a neighborhood in common.

"We both know St. Louis. We were born and raised here," Gray said. "It was a remarkable coincidence that we were born only a few blocks from one another in the same part of the city: 722 N. Vandeventer for me and 4048 Maffitt at Sarah for him."

The two natives completed a series on St. Louis neighborhoods in mid-1970s, placed emphasis on their local knowledge.

Hunter has earned five local Emmy awards, the Missouri Medal of Honor from Missouri University's School of Journalism and the American Jewish Committee's Mosaic Award.

Hunter, who joined KMOX in 1974, has travelled in the engraved 1975 Pope John Paul II's visit, switched twice to the Vatican to report on the Papacy. He has interviewed Presidents Gerald Ford, Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan.

Beside his duties as a broadcast journalist, Hunter is familiar to St. Louisans as a faculty member at Maryville College, a former university of the Missouri State College, and Washington University, author of local histories and member of the Missouri Historical Society; and popular luncheon and dinner speaker.

He and his wife, Barbara, a fiber artist, have two daughters, 14, and Julia, 11, each busy with interests of their own.

Gray still is in process of moving his family, wife, Peggy, and two sons, from New York City to St. Louis. Gray returned in January from Omaha, Neb., where he had been co-anchor of the 5 and 10 p.m. newscasts on KETV. He assumed the evening anchor spot with Hunter in March.

Gray is the recipient of a local Emmy and honor from the Missouri Broadcasters Association and United Press International Broadcasters' Association of Missouri.

Standing on their numerous credentials, it is no wonder that Gray and Hunter are the popular perception of anchors as news readers and bristle at the term "celebrity."

"I have never been so honored as this woman has called me to come to a community fair. I get lots of invitations to attend things on the weekends as a judge, speaker, what have you. But this woman wants me to come to her place and be a celebrity. That hurt," Hunter said.

"Yeah," chimed Gray. "I've met Max Factor, star of my past. Several times, there has been a lot of emphasis on television reporters and anchors looking good. And appearance is important. But what the public really wants in a newscast brings in the ratings: well-crafted news stories on a well-crafted news cast."

Both Gray and Hunter take reporting assignments for the newscasts, but leave the daily field reporting to staff of 50 professionals who form the KMOX support and technical teams.

"We edit the writing that comes in. We want the material we deliver to reflect our personal style. We try to reflect our personal style. There is always the broadcasters' prayer, you know: 'Oh Lord, make my words sweet today because I must eat them tomorrow,'" Hunter said.

"I see anchors as two things: first, as senior reporters who must understand the story enough to ask questions of the reporter on the scene; second, as a final filter for the product that the viewer sees."

Both are quick to repeat the idea of the most exciting assignments given to them: covering Presidential visits. "When the president is in town, there's an excitement in the air you can't match at any other time," It's the power and the presence of the office and the entourage."

"I feel fortunate to have covered (Richard) Nixon. I would cover a Presidential visit without getting paid for it. Don't tell my boss!"

Hunter remembers a hectic win- ter's day on the levee, as his most exciting assignment. He had taken a car and came to town to cover a group's arrival in town by bus. While they were down on the riverfront, they noticed some fire-fighters spraying a foam on the cobblestones and ended up doing a

Columbia Man Transformed To Modern-Day Mark Twain

By Norma Tynes
Journal Staff Writer

When Dale Janssen grew a mustache and a white suit, he became a twin of an Iowa town in 1982. He was unprepared for the effect it would have on his appearance—and on his life.

At age 61, his hair was white and wavy. Adding a mustache to a stature and facial features bearing a striking resemblance to Mark Twain created a tandem of look-alikes in Twain's wife's suit and holding the author's ever-present cigar, Janssen's appearance as Twain was complete and had a dramatic impact.

A resident of Columbia, Mo., Janssen was in St. Louis recently lending realism to "Mark Twain Days" at the Missouri re-enactment of La Cledie's Landing. His appearance came about coincidentally, the latest in a series of coincidences that has draped the mantle of Twain's identity over his shoulders.

"I WAS walking around the riverfront, seeing the visitors' center at the Arch, and I went up to see La Cledie's Landing," Janssen said. "I saw a man in a white suit and a mustache, and when I walked in, the receptionist just gasped. She asked me to wait while she went to get me some coffee."

Janssen said restaurant manager Tom Denny asked him about himself and his striking resemblance to Twain, and then invited him to come back for a re-enactment of a production.

It was a similar coincidence in Hannibal, Mo., in July 1983, that began to change the direction of his life.

Unaware of the Twain celebration going on in Hannibal, Janssen was there visiting a nursing home. When a nurse saw him, she almost fainted, Janssen recalled.

JANSSEN WAS invited to visit the Rockcliffe mansion, where Twain addressed 300 guests when he last visited Hannibal in 1902. Joyce Hartley, a Hannibal resident involved in guarding the Twain legend, suggested he try on a suit that belonged to Twain.

"I had been hanging there for 70 years," Janssen said, "and they persuaded me to try it on. They were all waiting for me to come out to see if it fit. It fit."

*While he was in Hannibal, the cast of the television show Real People stopped there to film a segment of a show about the Mississippi River cities and towns.*

"Mark Russell and Sara Purcell walked up to me and said, 'We know who you are,' " Janssen said. "I told them I knew who they were, too, and we talked."

THE RESULT, as anyone who saw the show may remember, was a scene in which Mark Russell stood in the front of the cave where Tom Sawyer and Becky Thatcher were lost. As Russell's words evoked the spirit of Twain, Janssen dressed as Twain—appeared in the background and walked forward until he stood silently beside Russell.

He has since made appearances at all of Missouri's neighboring states, and to Hartford, Conn., where Twain last made his home.

Janssen admitted he was overwhelmed by the experience at first. He was contacted by agents who offered to manage him, and some phony money who suggested he put $5,000 to $10,000 "up front" to launch his career.

At one point he talked with a minister about how to deal with it all, and came away with a sense of direction.

Janssen had been in the business of negotiating grain transportation contracts since the 1950s. His barnacles playing led him to appearances, and he has been able to follow up by studying and gaining certification as a geriatric activity director.

FOLLOWING THE advice of Bob

Clayton, a Hannibal attorney who had played the role of Mark Twain, and another friend in Booneville, he has been presenting his version of the Twain presentations. He intensifies his research on Twain with visits to his birthplace in Florida, Mo., and some autographic coaching from Deb Baldwin, a Stephens College alumna.

Speaking in a soft, slow drawl, Janssen said he has Twain money to invest in the Twain operation.

The money he has now come to accept and enjoy, so he began asking $50 and expenses for an appearance. That soon increased to $100, and at a recent appearance in Kansas City he was paid a "handsome" honorarium in addition to his fee.

Janssen said he has never seen or heard Mr. Holbrook's presentation, "Mark Twain Tonight." Consciously or unconsciously, he doesn't want to pick up someone else's interpretation.

*Earlier this year Janssen was coming to the Tiger Hotel in Columbia, but two days before Holbrook was scheduled to appear at Missouri University, Two women approached him and said, "You must be Mr. Holbrook."*

Omni Finds Terminal Beginning

Union Station's old Terminal Hotel will be restored in part later this summer when the Omni International Hotel opens.

The Omni, a 550-room, luxury hotel, will include parts of the Terminal Hotel, never before opened since the glass-roofed train shed.

A major part of the Omni's 825,000 square feet will be located in

United States' restored Headhouse, the Romanesque structure fronting on Market Street between 18th and 20th streets.

The lobby of the hotel will be situated in the restored Grand Hall of the Headhouse, under a 65-foot, barrel-vaulted ceiling.

Conference rooms and meeting spaces, capacity 35,000 square feet, will be located in the Headhouse portion of the hotel.

The 70 guest rooms in the Headhouse will feature such services as complimentary cable movies, personalized wake-up calls, beverages and fresh fruit on arrival and guest bathrooms equipped with televisions and telephone extensions.

The services were highlighted in 1984 as part of a multi-million dollar advertising campaign aimed at developing a brand-name identity for Omni properties.

The Omni at Union Station will be one of 24 Omni International Hotels located in metropolitan and resort locations in the United States.

Dale Janssen at the edge of the Mississippi River in St. Louis last week. His remarkable resemblance to Mark Twain has drafted him into a late career making appearances as Samuel Clemens, the 19th century author whose pen name was inspired by his experiences as a river boat pilot on the Mississippi.

'No show' of flowers on shrubs disappoints readers

Several readers have expressed concern over shrubs that failed to flower for several years. In one case, a tree that flowered the first season after planting has not done so the past two or three years.

There are several possible causes of this problem. Azaleas, for instance, have failed the past two years because temperatures dropped so low that buds were frozen.

The type of treatment a plant receives also may influence flower production. Trees and shrubs in good condition when purchased from a nursery usually have a reserve of nutrients that will carry them through the first year and enable them to flower. However, if, after planting, a high-nitrogen fertilizer is applied, the plant may grow too vigorously and be unable to set flower buds.

Late pruning, too, has an adverse effect as it can stimulate growth on some plants as well as remove buds that would produce the next seasons flowers.

Low-light conditions also can slow production of flowers and fruit.

Most trees and shrubs, if planted in well-prepared soil enriched with additional organic matter, will grow well and do not need a lot of fertilization.

Established plants need feeding when conditions have not been favorable. This includes severe droughts as well as extremely wet weather, such as has occurred the past two years.

Continuous rains lead to lack of air in soil which may cause many older trees to lose roots. Excessive rains can also leach the fertilizer (nutrients) out of the soil, resulting in a chlorosis. Soil reaction, too, can be a factor.

Water in well and check routinely to make sure the plant receives sufficient moisture during the year.

Mulching around the base of the plant to control moisture and weeds and avoid cultivating close to the plant since the feeding roots may be cut.

In some cases, lowering of the soil pH by adding ground sulphur will help. This may be best followed with a feeding.

H.U. of St. Louis asks about the care of an azalea plant received as a gift.

Azaleas received at this time may be planted outdoors after flowering has ended. A location that gets full filtered sun or sun for two to four hours a day will be suitable.

Azaleas need a soil that is well-drained and enriched with additional organic matter. It is often helpful to add a small amount of ground sulfur has been added to lower the pH. Avoid planting too deep as roots are shallow and are produced near the surface.

Water in well and check routinely to make sure the plant receives sufficient moisture during the year. Mulching around the base of the plant to control moisture and weeds and avoid cultivating close to the plant since the feeding roots may be cut.

Potted azaleas usually are not hardy when it comes to wintering outdoors but plants received this late in the season generally are more tolerant of winter weather.

Protect the plant the first year or two by covering it after heavy frost has set. Use a covering of leaves or make a tent out of burlap (not plastic).

Hard times for zoysia: Spring fails to revive many lawns

"What happened to my zoysia lawn?"

"I have had a beautiful lawn for 20 years and now . . ."

"It was perfect last fall, but this year . . ."

Such comments are being made by a number of homeowners throughout the area who have zoysia. The widespread development of undesirable—mainly Johnson grass—that were practically perfect last year now are almost totally dead.

What really did happen to them?

The question depends on the location and the nature of its weather. St. Louis is located in a band called the "transition zone." Weather in this band, which runs roughly from the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes, is hot and dry for cool-season grasses, such as bluegrass; and also can become too cold for warm-season grasses, such as zoysia.

The majority of zoysia damage this year is being identified as winter injury. What made this the "winter" developmental year? The lack of snow cover when temperatures plummeted to minus 17. Snow works like an insulating blanket and protects the crown or base portion of the turf.

If you do not see new runners filling in the brown dead areas in a winter-damaged zoysia lawn, do not expect a quick recovery. Many homeowners will need to renovate and actually kills over the winter. As its name indicates, it shows up in the spring as circular dead areas.

This is an ideal time to start zoysia because it will have the entire summer to develop. Be sure to clean out the thatch layer with a power rake.

Zoysia is fairly resistant to most problems, and it will do well through most winters if the thatch is not too thick. Due to the increasing popularity of zoysia in recent years, greater public attention has been focused on diseases affected it.

Two diseases that are being studied are zoysia patch (also called zoysia decline) and spring dead spot.

Zoysia patch causes turf to be purplish-green in spring. As the summer starts, the disease goes dormant and the turf begins to recover. However, it usually recovers only 50 to 60 percent of the pre-disease density.

Over a period of years, very thick zoysia lawns can be reduced to a very thin carpet. The slow reduction in density accounts for the name "zoysia decline." Researchers have not yet identified the cause of this disease, nor any way to chemically control it.

The second disease showing up on zoysia, spring dead spot, can also affect Bermuda grass. Again, at the present, there is not much known about this disease.

Spring dead spot starts in the fall and actually kills over the winter. As its name indicates, it shows up in the spring as circular dead areas.

One course of action that may help lawns plagued by either of these diseases is to cut out the infected sod and replace that area. The Missouri Cooperative Extension Service has information on roguing and fertilizing new lawns; the number of the St. Louis County Extension office is 889-2911.

The best control for these diseases, and for any diseased lawn, is to practice good cultural practices. The severity of damage can be minimized by keeping the lawn as healthy and stress-free as possible.

HERE ARE a few tips on proper care of zoysia and Bermuda:

- Keep the thatch layer under 1 inch.
- Scalp the lawn in spring.
- Mow between 3/4 and 1 1/2 inches.

• A balanced fertility program with the nitrogen rate held to approximately 2 to 2 1/2 lbs./1000 sq. ft. per year is recommended.

• Watch for insect problems, such as chinch bugs and billbugs.

• Keep the lawn watered. Zoysia is drought-tolerant, not drought-resistant.

Boost home security before leaving on trip

Residents planning a vacation can guard against unpleasant surprises by taking several home security measures before leaving.

Sgt. Charlie Metzner, St. Louis Police Department's Bureau of Operation SafeStreet, offers the following tips:

Stop by your local police district station and let our vacation check-out. The patrol car assigned to your area will check your home randomly day and night.

Have a close friend or neighbor check in regularly. That person can alternate the lights in different rooms and change shades and blinds to create an impression that you are away.

Remove valuable articles from the porch or yard.

If you will be away for just two or three days, you can hire a mail and newspaper collector.

Or, if you are planning a longer vacation,

Metzner suggests cancelling, for the length of your trip, deliveries of mail and papers to which you subscribe.

Make arrangements for someone to check on your home.

Let your neighbor know where you can be reached.

Do not have a key outside. If a burglar is discovered while you are away, ask your neighbor to call the police immediately and then contact you.

Remove everything inside. Lawn furniture, toys, tools and bicycles should be stored indoors. The garage should be closed and locked.

Remove valuable articles from the window.

Give your home a security survey by the local police department. Areas and strengthen security there.

Do not discuss your plans publicly. Include them in an article for a newspaper.

Seminar on homes presented

A free seminar for home buyers will be conducted from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, July 7, in the auditorium in the auditorium in the Auditorium Building, Granite City, at Forsyth and Jackson.

The seminar will be presented by Morton Lazaroff, president of Morton Lazaroff Home Inspection Inc.

The program is designed to assist home buyers in evaluating the condition of homes they are considering for purchase, as well as to give suggestions on preventive maintenance techniques for existing homes.

For reservations, call 863-4784. A question-and-answer session and slides presentation, "Water and How It Damages the Home," will be included. Reassessment in the county also will be discussed.

Unearned runs give Jeff City split with Triplets

By GREGG OCHOA
Journal Sports Editor

If Tri-City Manager Dave Coakley could figure out a way to eliminate all those unearned runs his team has allowed this season, his hair might not turn gray as fast.

With Coakley still has those dark locks, the Triplets gave away more runs. Jefferson City scored six unearned runs in the top of the seventh to persevere a 10-3 win and gain a split in an American Legion doubleheader Saturday at University Field.

The Triplets, who had snapped a four-game losing streak on Saturday, held on to win the opener 7-6. The games did not count toward either team's league record.

In the first game Tri-City allowed 11 unearned runs. The six tallies in the second game was also the second time the team has given up that many unearned runs this season.

"We're just not playing too good or defense right now," Coakley said.

One exception was Triplets centerfielder Gerald Booker. He put on fielding clinic in the second game.

In the third inning, Booker made a diving catch of a shallow ball hit off the bat of Craig Lammers. In the fourth, he took what might have been a home run away from Greg Reed. Booker headed towards the fence and snatched the ball while it was still on the nose.

"He doesn't look like he is that quick," Coakley said, "but he covers a lot of ground. He's got such long strides."

Booker also collected four hits over the two games — three came in the opener. He was also on base five times, scoring three runs.

In the first game, Mark Bowen scattered three hits in four innings of work and picked up the victory.

The game, however, was not without its tense moments. Kurt Hylla relieved Bowen, who was ahead 7-3 in the fifth. Hylla struck out the lead-off hitter to Reed and Jeff City added five more unearned runs, taking advantage of two Tri-City errors.

Hylla rebounded and shutout Jefferson City the next to innings. He was helped by a double play to end the game.

Righthanded Erric Gray grabbed Doug Ready's liner and fired to Pat Cathey at first to force Keith Rose, who had reached on an error, out.

"I wanted to see how many pitchers I have," Coakley said of his move. Hylla is normally an outfielder, who pitched just one time in high school.

"You never know when there might be a game when somebody will have to come in and pitch an inning or just one batter," Coakley said. "This is the type of game to get them work."

Tri-City got a single run in the first as Booker singled and scored on a fielder's choice by Cathey. The Triplets padded its lead score five times in the second inning.

Matt Roe collected two RBIs with a double while Cathey and Booker had the other two runs batted in. All told, Tri-City sent nine men to bat and banged out five hits.

The Triplets got another run in the fourth when Booker tripled and scored on a wild pitch. The play was a close one at home and the call was protested by Jeff City Manager Joe Wilbers. He was ejected by the plate umpire.

"I guess he got me when I showed him (the umpire) where I thought the tag went. I must have kicked dirt on the plate. But, I didn't think I went overboard with it," Wilbers said.

Wilbers and the plate umpire exchanged words face-to-face and when the manager turned and walked away, he was thundered out.

"I was really stunned when he got right there in my face," Wilbers said.

In the second game, Jeff City pitcher Scott Kenna made no hit for the first five innings and shut down the Triplets.

TOUGH CHANCE: Tri-City second baseman Scott Coakley grimaces as he tries to avoid the ball and Jefferson City's Randy Burgess and Cathey were the only Tri-City players to hit safely.

Both teams traded runs in the opening inning. Mark Steinmenn smacked a single scoring Ready with Jeff City's first run.

The Triplets countered with Hylla hitting and later scored on a bad throw to third by Keith Rose.

Tri-City briefly took a 2-1 lead in the third with Alton Zentgraf walked and scored on sacrifice fly to left field by Roe.

Jefferson City added two more runs in the fourth and an RBI by Kenna and an error.

The Triplets threatened in the sixth. Hylla reached third after centerfielder Rob Lammers bobbled the ball. However, he was thrown out at the plate trying to score on Roe's fly out.

Cathey and Burgess singled and Darin Spalding, who had relieved starter Tim Gray, walked to load the bases. Cathey scored and Mark Bowen hit a ball which the shortstop booted as he attempted to force Gray at second. The rally ended when Kenna fanned pinch-hitter Steve Davis on a 3-2 count.

Jeff City then broke the game open scoring five unearned runs in the seventh, all after two were out.

"We have a hard time playing catch-up ball," Coakley said. "But it seems like we are playing it a lot."

Jr. Legion drops 18-5 bomb on Optimists; now 7-3

By JOE THOMPSON
Of the Journal Staff

GRANITE CITY — The crack of bat meeting ball is a sweet sound to Kelly Hogan centerfielder. The Hogan — especially when the ball flies out in his direction.

In the third inning of last Saturday's game here, Alton Optimist's hitters sent five shots in Hogan's direction. They hit the ball out of his reach, to the right and to his left. They sent Hogan on a chase — a merry one,

"I like it, though," Hogan said. "It's something to do."

"He likes it," agreed Scott LeVault, who was doing the pitching. "It keeps him on his toes."

"Scott did it as a favor to me," said Hogan.

The youthful outfielder added, zestfully one might say, "It was getting his fastball over the heart of the plate. They were just ripping it."

"They weren't just hitting it. They were drilling it," LeVault said. The hitting explosion produced four runs.

LeVault, though, was thrown a lifeline. As his defense performed superbly. The offense, with 10 hits, struck up its own sweet sounds.

Kelly Hogan romped, 18-5, in a Junior American Legion contest held after five days because of the 10-inning mercy rule.

It wasn't just outfielder Hogan who worked up a sweat.

"We played a good ballgame today," said third baseman Todd Hinterseer, who collected two of the 10 hits.

Kelly Hogan Manager Paul Kacera agreed, but the robust slugging was especially pleasing. "Everybody's hitting," he said.

The victory improved Kelly Hogan's record to 7-3, while Alton fell to 4-5.

LeVault had the right idea with his "across the heart of the plate" pitches. The last time the Hogan Plumbing takes advantage of 13 walks in league pounding of Alton. Offense also generates 10 hits in five-inning game.

two teams played, Kelly Hogan won, but only 10-9.

"We walked in five runs," said Kacera.

Alton Optimist certainly wasn't taking notes. The four Alton Optimist hurlers walked 13 batters last Saturday. There were complaints of a "tight" strike zone, afterward.

Four of the walks came with the bases loaded. Seven of the bases on balls came in the third inning, when Kelly Hogan erupted for eight runs.

Hinterseer and LeVault batted twice in that third frame. Both times they walked.

Alton Optimist assistant coach Keith Elting was a good student, dably, and paid with his team's winning. The third inning was the best Alton Optimist had knocked the ball around all season. But it was the wrong time to break out of a hitting slump. Tough, too, for Alton fans.

"Real tough," said Elting. "It makes you wonder."

But there was no wondering on the part of LeVault. He allowed 10 hits, but he walked just two. He also struck out 10.

Then, however, Kelly Hogan made sure that Alton Optimist hurlers (in order of appearance)

Scott Harper, Jerome Moore, Allen Robertson, and Rick Stierwalt, paid for the strikes they did throw.

Kelly Hogan second baseman Charlie Collins didn't lack for good pitches to hit. He hit safely four times in four at-bats to drive in five runs. Two of his hits were doubles. In the fourth inning, when Kelly Hogan scored seven runs, Collins lashed another RBI.

Clean-up batter Todd Adamis was three hits for three at-bats. Two of his blows were doubles. He drove in four runs.

Darin Hendrickson tripled in a run. Tim Hogan singled in two runs. Jamie Hogan drew two bases on balls, including one with the bases loaded. Besides his two hits, Hinterseer walked three times. He singled in one run and one of his walks came with the bases loaded for another RBI.

Catcher Dave Bumper singled in a run. Mike Georgoff walked twice, once with the bases loaded.

As for pitcher LeVault, he proved his batting eye was just as sharp as his pitching "sights." He failed to get a hit, but he also did not make an out. He walked all four times he batted.

Fishing Report

The following information was compiled by the Illinois Department of Conservation based on areawide reports for the month of June. Keep in mind, however, that the hot weather may change the forecast. The DOC latest reports include:

BEAVER DAM, CARLINVILLE — Largemouth bass are rated as fair for boaters and bank anglers using topwater lures or nitewrappers; catches are averaging 14 inches long. Channel cat are rated as fair for bank anglers using stickbaits; catches are averaging 14 inches long. Bluegill are rated as fair using mealworms as bait. Crappies are rated spotty on minnows.

RANDOLPH COUNTY LAKE, CHESTER — Fishing is fair overall. Largemouth bass are taking worms, crayfish and crankbaits fished from boats working the points. Carp are taking worms fished from boats in the coves. Channel catfish are taking worms fished from the bank in the dam area. Stocked rainbow trout are taking cheese fished from the bank around the dam.

CARLYLE LAKE — The lake is one-quarter inch above normal summer pool. Water is slightly murky but fishable. Temperatures range from 73 to 77 degrees. Crappie are rated slow using minnows and jigs fished one-half to six feet deep around stumps. Channel catfish are rated fair on trotlines using nitewrappers. Bluegill are rated spotty to fair on crickets and redworms fished along riprap areas. White bass are rated fair, but is getting better. Largemouth bass are rated fair on spinner baits fished in brush and rock riprap. Blue gill are rated fair on crickets and redworms in the old river channel.

LAKE SHELBYVILLE — Lake is at normal summer pool. Water is clear with temperatures at 74 to 76 degrees. Largemouth bass are rated as good with on crankbaits and jig-and-pig rigs. Channel cat are rated fair on slab spoons, little georges and gay blades. Walleye are rated as spotty on nitewrappers and deep running plugs drifted along the flats next to the creek channel.

REND LAKE — The lake is two and three-quarters feet above normal summer pool. The water is clear with temperatures between 77 to 79 degrees. Crappie are rated as fair to good on minnows, flips and the new small jigs. The best fishing early morning and late in the evening. Bluegill are rated good on jigs and redworms fished around sunken and flooded timbers in Nason Point area. Bluegill are "bedded." Channel cat are rated good on pole and line using nitewrappers fished along riprap areas. Largemouth bass are rated as fair on plastic worms and double-bladed spinner baits fished in shallow water.

Ultra-light fishing: The fun of this sport is in the catching

By JIM HUFFSTODT
Department of Conservation

To paraphrase an old advertising cliché, half the fun is in the catching. This fact underlies the growing interest in ultra-light fishing now sweeping the country.

Ultra-lights are the small minimalist spinning or spin-cast rods which nestle in the palm of the hand, hold sensitive line in the two to four pound range, and cast tiny lures most of which are under the half-ounce mark. The rods are extremely light, often affairs which usually measure five to five and a half feet long.

Utilizing this gear magnifies the challenge and maximizes the fun. You can see it in Chicago where lakefront anglers have discovered that a yellow perch at the end of a two-pound test line take on all the dimensions of a fighting fury six times its weight.

In lakes and ponds downstate, the focus is on the bluegill, a formidable fighter in its weight class that becomes Godzilla when hooked with ultra-light. A 10 ounce bluegill can provide a severe test for the most experienced angler giving the fish a fighting chance by using the ultra-light approach.

"The wisp of a rod arched sharply and the small spinning reel whirled with a screech," wrote Bruch Stromp recently in Outdoor Oklahoma. "The light line, hardly visible to the angler's eyes, cut v-shaped wakes as the fish surged toward deep water. With every lunge the reel whined sharply, and the fisherman tightened his grip on the straining rod...Using only light tackle, the fisherman acknowledged the fish's right to a fighting chance, and the fish gave its best effort, forcing the angler to do the same."

This is the mystique of ultra-light. It appeals to the best sporting instinct of the angler. Fishermen re-discover the exhilaration of long ago youth when they master a two-pound largemouth bass within the limitations set by ultra-light tackle.

There is a subtle sophistication inherent in ultra-light fishing. Experienced anglers sense that immediately during the first few casts with the fine ultra-light gear now on the market. Combining light weight with the delicate sensory capabilities of a boron or graphite rod, and the angler has suddenly enhanced his ability to interpret the faint vibrations that emanate from the unseen prey.

This is the age of ultra-light. A decade ago the major tackle manufacturers provided only ultra-light spinning rigs. This changed dramatically as new priorities and technology ushered in a wave of ultra-light spin casts with the same quality and features of larger reels. Many come packaged in light, plastic carrying cases that can be strapped on your belt.

At the same time, the range of ultra-light tackle has rapidly expanded. Today's ultra-light angler has a wide choice of lures sized appropriate to the needs of tiny reels and light line. Many are simply miniaturized versions of long familiar to anglers.

Ultra-light anglers now employ tiny spinners, artificial minnows, plastic worms, jigs and deep diving plugs — most of which measure 4 to under two inches. The typical lure weight is quarter-ounce, while some crappie anglers employ the small 1/64th of an ounce jig.

All this eye-catching gear, however, is useless unless the angler develops the skills which ultra-light fishing demands.

There is no forgiveness here, as is the case with heavy pole and casting test line. The angler, not the equipment, is paramount when tangling with a small bass raising hell at the end of delicate line.

You don't simply reel in a fish on ultra-light tackle. You learn the total definition of the phrase "playing the fish." You don't muscle a fish; the victory is gained through finesse, intelligence and capitalizing on the reel's smooth drag, and the rod's suppleness to tire-out the prey.

Once you have honed your ultra-light skills on an assortment of pugnacious bluegill or small bass, there are few challenges beyond your imagination. Quite a few ultra-light anglers stick to their delicate gear when searching out the big lumpers. They have arrived at the point where they think they can triumph over the big guys, or have a fine time trying.

Ultra-lights are for those sportsmen who like the difficult things in life. If you savor a challenge, and love a good fight regardless of the might of your opponent, the ultra-light is the ticket to the ultimate in angling satisfaction.
